Nike Supports UNC Athletics

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Nike Inc. signed a new 10-year contract for Nike to be the exclusive supplier of athletic footwear, apparel and accessory products to the Tar Heels effective July 1, 2008. Nike will provide the athletic department with shoes, uniforms, coaching gear, balls and other equipment. In addition to the apparel and equipment, which constitutes the majority of the value of the contract, Nike will give the University $2 million for the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. Chancellor Holden Thorp has directed the funds to faculty support. Nike will also provide support for team tours, travel and hosting regular-season tournaments in several sports. The athletic department also received $1 million for signing the contract, with those funds having been used to overhaul lighting and sound at the Dean E. Smith Center.

Just a year ago North Carolina entered the 2009 women's soccer season as the unanimous preseason No. 1 team coming off a 20th national championship earned during the 2008 campaign. Coach Anson Dorrance had the luxury of having a cast of players with returning starting experience at all 11 spots on the field. That talent-laden Tar Heel team bolted out of the gate with a 7-2 win over eventual NCAA semifinalist UCLA in the season lidlifter and in their fourth game the Tar Heels defeated another eventual NCAA semifinalist, Notre Dame, by a 6-0 mark.

What seemed like a walk in the park en route to a national championship proved to be anything but that by season's end. After tying Auburn in mid-September, the Tar Heels lost a trio of conference road games in October and stood 13-3-1 with a week remaining in the regular season. Over the last 11 games of the year, the true Carolina reappeared as the Heels ran off 11 wins in a row, allowing only two goals in the process. UNC shut out three opponents in winning the ACC Tournament and then went 6-0 in the NCAA Tournament, culminating in College Cup wins over Notre Dame 1-0 and previously undefeated and untied Stanford 1-0 in the final.

Just eight months later, the Tar Heels could hardly find themselves in a more different position as they seek to defend their title, winning a third in a row and the school's 22nd overall. Of the 31 letter winners on last year NCAA championship team, 15 are now gone from the roster through graduation, transfers and other attrition. Seven players who started last year's NCAA championship game victory over Stanford are no longer on the roster. Sixteen letter winners return from 2009, including four players who started in the win over the Cardinal.

When a program has won 21 national titles and 21 ACC crowns while posting an all-time record of 696-36-22, the word rebuilding is not really allowed to be on the table. Carolina's tradition just doesn't allow that word plus its opponents would likely mock its use. So the word retooling may be a better one in describing the task ahead for Dorrance and his assistant coaches Bill Palladino and Chris Ducar.

Amongst the losses for UNC are its top three scorers from last year – Casey Nogueira (36 points), Jessica McDonald (24 points) and Tobin Heath (20 points) – as well as two starting defenders, Whitney Engen, the 2009 Honda Soccer Award Winner, and Kristi Eveland. Also gone is All-ACC goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris who ranked third in the nation in goal against average a year ago at 0.42.

Rachel Givan

Still, the Tar Heels have a solid corps to build around and a group of newcomers that will compete with returning reserves for a whole host of spots in the starting lineup.

As Dorrance begins to put together the pieces, it's likely five of the 11 spots in the starting lineup are already taken. This quintet includes redshirt senior midfielder Ali Hawkins of Encinitas, Calif., a three-time captain of the Tar Heel team; senior midfielder Meghan Klingenberg of Gibsonia, Pa.; senior defender Rachel Givan of Ridgeland, Miss.; junior forward Courtney Jones of Danville, Calif.; and sophomore midfielder/defender Amber Brooks of New Hope, Pa.

Hawkins, who missed 2007 with a torn ACL, has started on three NCAA championship teams at UNC while Klingenberg, Givan and Jones all started on both the 2008 & 2009 NCAA title-winning teams.

Jones was UNC's fourth-leading scorer in 2009 with six goals and seven assists for 19 points while Hawkins was the Tar Heels' fifth-leading scorer with five goals and five assists for 15 points. Klingenberg started 23 games for UNC last year and had 11 points while Givan led the team in minutes played with 2,449 while starting all 27 games on defense. Brooks was also a dependable player, starting 15 times last year and playing 1,591 minutes at various midfield spots.

Other returning letter winners who are likely to be in the thick of consideration for starting positions in 2010 will be sophomore forward Alyssa Rich of Cincinnati, Ohio; sophomore defender Megan Brigman of Laurinburg, N.C.; junior forward Brittani Bartok of Union, N.J.; sophomore goalkeeper Hannah Daly of Lake Tahoe, Nev.; sophomore midfielder Raneé Premji of Calgary, Alberta; and redshirt junior Maria Lubrano of High Point, N.C.

2010 Season Preview

Meghan Klingenberg

Katie Lutz of Waxhaw, N.C.; and senior forward Katie Klimczak of Elk Grove Village, Ill. All the players in this group will have significant chances to see added time on the pitch this season with playing time there for the asking.

Queue the freshmen. There are seven of them to go along with four upperclassmen in their first years as Tar Heels.

It is not out of the realm of possibility that as many as six freshmen could start in 2010. After all, seven started in 2006 when the Tar Heels won the national championship coming off a 2005 season when they suffered similar graduation losses.

Among the potential starters in this group are defender Crystal Dunn of Rockville Centre, N.Y.; forward Kealia Ohai of Draper, Utah; defender Olivia MBala of Toronto, Ontario and goalkeeper Anna Sieloff of Troy, Mich.; forward Elizabeth Burchenal of Terrace Park, Ohio; and midfielder Meg Morris of Montclair, N.J.

Filling out the roster for UNC will be freshmen midfielder Kelly McFarlane of Mill Valley, Calif. Upperclassmen making their Tar Heel debuts will be junior goalkeeper Adelaide Gay of Skillman, N.J., a transfer from Yale; redshirt sophomore midfielder Rebecca Crabb of Omaha, Neb.; sophomore midfielder Barkley Minton of Raleigh, N.C.; and sophomore midfielder Kylie Watt of Valatie, N.Y.

Rich earned freshman All-ACC honors last year with a five-goal, two-assist season. Brigman, who saw limited time last year, possesses great speed and is in consideration for one of the starting spots in UNC's flat back three defense. Bartok is a magician with the ball who has played a reserve role the past two years but regularly has produced big goals and big assists for UNC. She had two goals and six assists last year. Daly was the chief backup to Harris in the goal last season, allowing 0.6 goals per game and saving .714 of the shots against her. Premji saw significant time in the midfield last year and had four assists in a win over NC State. Lubrano had a breakthrough season last year as she started 12 games and had key goals in wins over Duke and Maryland.

Other returning letter winners are senior goalkeeper Amanda Tucker of Seminole, Fla.; redshirt sophomore midfielder Rachel Wood of Laguna Niguel, Calif.; junior forward Emmalie Pfankuch of Fort Collins, Colo.; sophomore midfielder Kristine Welsh-Loveman of Wellesley, Mass.; senior defender

2009 NCAA Championship Season Review

By Dave Lohse, Associate Athletic Communications Director

There were so many twists and turns in the University of North Carolina's journey to the 2009 NCAA women's soccer championship that when I sat down to write this column my head was literally racing at the thought of the sheer number of angles I could take in telling the tale. Writing a column of tribute to the women's soccer program has been an annual endeavor for me on TarHeelBlue.com. It is a labor of love. But this year, I was genuinely puzzled as to which direction to pursue.

Should I concentrate on the comeback from consecutive losses late in the regular season, a development similar to the 2000 campaign when Carolina rallied from a late downturn to claim an NCAA championship? The two seasons were almost mirror images. In 2000, UNC finished 21-3, 4-3 in the ACC. In 2009, the Tar Heels were 23-3-1, 7-3 in the ACC.

Was the correct angle the goal-scoring bacchanal in the first 13 days of the season against third-ranked UCLA (7-2) and second-ranked Notre Dame (6-0) or the dominating performances in the run of play in the College Cup against Notre Dame and No. 1 Stanford, a dominance which resulted in a pair of razor-thin 1-0 wins for UNC, which at the same time was outshooting its opponents by a combined 45-17?

Could the story be the number of nerve-racking one-goal games the team had to survive to reach the ultimate goal of Carolina's 21st national championship? Carolina played 15 of them in 2009, going 12-3 and 4-0 in NCAA Tournament games.

Maybe I needed to talk about the amazing Class of '09 that led UNC to three NCAA titles in the past four years. After all, seven of them--Ashlyn Harris, Tobin Heath, Nikki Washington, Whitney Engen, Casey Nogueira, Ali Hawkins and Kristi Eveland--all started the second half of UNC's championship game win in 2006 over Notre Dame and all but Harris started the game itself. As freshmen in '06, this group helped deliver a national title that season to a storied program that had won only one time in the previous five years. All told, the Class of '09 went 94-9-4 overall, winning three NCAA titles, three ACC regular-season titles and four ACC Tournament championships.

It would also be easy to look ahead and talk about the rebuilding job head coach Anson Dorrance faces in 2010 after the massive losses UNC suffered to graduation and the pro ranks. Nine seniors departed the program and overall Carolina had seven players drafted by Women's Professional Soccer, including four of the top eight picks. In 2010, Dorrance will have to rely on freshmen much like he did in 2006 when the Tar Heels won a national championship that in many ways was unexpected. After all, that 2006 team started its championship trek minus National Team players & future WPS stars Lindsay Tarpley, Lori Chalupny, Kacey White and Kendall Fletcher, who were all seniors on the 2005 squad.

Well, it seems I covered most of the angles after all, except the one I loved writing about all throughout the 2009 season. For all of its goal-scoring prowess in some overwhelming wins over the likes of UCLA, Notre Dame, Wake Forest, Florida State and Georgia, this Carolina team was not particularly known for its offense. The 63 goals scored by UNC were the third fewest it has scored in the program's history. The Tar Heels only had one player in double figures in goals -- Nogueira with 13. Carolina averaged 2.33 goals per game, a perfectly acceptable total that most teams in the country would die for. But it was the second lowest scoring average in school history. Only the 2007 squad averaged fewer goals per contest at 2.24.

Forty-four of the 63 goals were bunched in 10 of the team's 27 games, a group of blowout wins in which UNC went 10-0 and outscored their opponents by a least three goals in every game. In the other 17 games on the UNC schedule, Carolina scored only 19 goals yet still found a way to finish 13-3-1 in those games.

And that comes full circle to the point of this column. Year in and year out, Carolina is a magnificent defensive team. It is just that no one seems to notice. The Tar Heels come after their opponents with so many weapons and experience such overwhelming offensive success that the defense gets taken for granted.

That, however, was not the case in 2009. It couldn't be. This Tar Heel team won with grittiness, poise and defensive tenacity. It was a role the team had to adopt, especially after star midfielder Nikki Washington was lost to an ACL tear in midseason and 2008 consensus National Player of the Year Nogueira was slow to find her scoring touch. The Tar Heels also had to deal with star midfielder Tobin Heath's frequent absences due to U.S. National Team commitments.

As it evolved, Heath returned for the stretch run to bring her brilliant playmaking to the pitch and Nogueira started finding the back of the net, pounding in nine goals in the final 11 games of the season.

But through it all, there was always the defense. Led by senior goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris, Honda Award winner Whitney Engen, four-year starter Kristi Eveland and underrated junior Rachel Givan, the defense held firm. Carolina allowed only 0.44 goals per game. Opponents scored only 12 goals all season and seven of them -- seven -- were surrendered in three games, two each in lopsided wins over UCLA and Wake Forest and three in a double overtime loss at Florida State. In Carolina's other 24 games, they allowed only five goals. The Tar Heels finished with 19 shutouts overall. In the same season, they had both seven-game and eight-game shutout streaks.

Except for Harris' brief service with the National Team halfway through the regular season, the quartet of Harris (2,162 minutes), Engen (2,365 minutes), Eveland (2,441 minutes) and Givan (2,449 minutes) rarely if ever left the pitch. That group deserves all the kudos heaped on it.

Before ending this tale, however, it is time for a quick instructional guide. This team would never have accomplished what it did were it not for its commitment to playing defense every minute of every game. It means all 11 players playing it together. It means constant pressure on the ball. It means the forwards, oftentimes in waves of substitutions, pressuring defensive lines constantly, running at players, forcing losses of possession. It means the midfield winning headers, controlling the flanks, eating up ground in the middle of the pitch and not allowing foes the chance to breathe. It means the goalkeeper organizing the defense at all times and serving as the last line of defense. It means the talented flat back three playing direct, getting balls out of danger, holding their line, inducing offside play by opponents and tackling without fear.

In '09, the Carolina defense got its due. It got the recognition it has always deserved. Every player was a part of the relentless effort and a veteran unit in the back led the way. It was Carolina's year to win a championship in gritty fashion, fashioning the old school concept of tough defense into a pleasing way to win another title. There wasn't as much panache in this title. But who needs panache when you've got a defense like the one the Tar Heels sported on their historic run to No. 21?

Tobin Heath assisted on both Tar Heel game-winning goals in the College Cup. She went on to earn consensus first-team All-America honors.

Head Coach Anson Dorrance

When Anson Dorrance was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 2, 2008, it marked one more milestone moment in the career of a man whose coaching prowess became legendary at a young age. Because Dorrance has not yet retired from his coaching career, he was only eligible for election on the "Builders of the Game" ballot and he won election to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility on that ballot.

Like fine wine — with age — the coaching career of Anson Dorrance only gets better. Dorrance proved that again last year as he led his team successfully through one of the most competitive College Cup fields in history as the University of North Carolina won its 21st overall national title and 20th NCAA crown. Dorrance thus became the first coach in NCAA history to win 20 championships coaching a single sport.

Head coach of the North Carolina women's soccer program since its inception in 1979, Dorrance has built and guided a well-oiled winning machine. Under his direction, the Tar Heels have collected national and conference championships at a stupendous rate, compiled an overall record staggering in its numerical verity, established records likely never to be approached and procured the esteem befitting a dynasty.

At an institution familiar with such incomparable achievement, especially with regard to its storied basketball program, it might be possible to think that Dorrance's accomplishments could somehow fade to the background. But what he has done in Chapel Hill is simply impossible to disregard.

Thus, when an expert panel employed by ESPN announced its list of the Best Coaches of the Past Quarter Century on July 28, 2004 — coincidentally headed at the No. 1 spot by legendary Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith — it came as no big surprise that another deserving Tar Heel mentor made the list.

That Dorrance, who was ranked No. 24 on the list, was one of only two coaches in the prestigious collection to coach an Olympic sport on the collegiate level only speaks louder about his recognized greatness.

More accolades were bestowed on Dorrance with his induction into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame on May 19, 2005 and to the National Soccer Hall of Fame on August 2, 2008. He earned those honors while still in the prime of his coaching career, further testament to his ongoing legacy.

As Dorrance prepares to begin his 32nd season as the head women's soccer coach at Carolina in the fall of 2010, even he must be wondering if there is anything left to be accomplished. Chances are excellent that he will find something.

Fitting Accolades From Basketball's Winningest Coach

It is said that greatness recognizes greatness.

Perhaps there is no better example of that than the quote Dean Smith gave Football News Magazine in 1997. Smith was asked by Football News about Carolina's preseason No. 1 ranking in football and what it was like for some sport other than basketball to be ranked No. 1.

Coach Smith's reply? "This is a women's soccer school. We're just trying to keep up with them." Coach Smith's clever retort was his way to give Dorrance his due.

From the person who was then the winningest head coach of all-time in one sport to the winningest head coach of all-time in another sport, the comment struck Dorrance as the ultimate honor. As Dorrance has said, "So much of what we have tried to do in our program is modeled after what Dean Smith has done and accomplished. To have our program compared favorably to his by the man himself is enormously humbling."

Similarly, Dorrance's immense loyalty to Carolina mirrors the loyalty Smith possessed for his adopted school. In 1994, when Dorrance decided not to continue his duties as the head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team, the choice perplexed many.

Some thought he relinquished the honor in order to avoid the pressure that comes with being the leader of what was then the defending World Cup championship squad. But Dorrance's decision had everything to do with allegiance to his alma mater.

The glory that came with coaching the U.S. to the championship in the first-ever Women's World Cup in 1991 was not enough to pull Dorrance away from his true professional love -- working full-time with the Tar Heels. He wanted to increase the level of excellence that soccer fans had come to expect from the record-shattering program he had molded. To do that Dorrance knew he would have to dedicate all of his coaching energy to the University. With more elite-level players emerging from high school and club teams than ever before, the playing field in the college game was leveling out; Dorrance knew that for UNC to remain at the top, he would have to throw himself into the process with renewed vigor.

"College programs like ours require a lot of work," says Dorrance. "At that point in time we had been surviving by just doing the minimum amount of work. We certainly couldn't continue to be successful by doing just the minimum. We needed the extra time to stay competitive in an increasingly tough college game."

A prime example of what Dorrance meant about a leveling playing field is the fact UNC has captured "only" six of the past 12 national championships from 1998-2009 when compared to the era from 1981 through 1997 when Carolina dominated the competition, winning 15 of 17 titles. Despite the improved nature of the competition, UNC's 21 titles still dominate the second-highest total — two each by Notre Dame and Portland.

Simply Staggering Numbers

It is difficult to comprehend Dorrance taking Carolina's women's program to any greater heights than what it has already achieved. Yet, for a program consumed with striving for excellence, a national championship every season remains the goal.

It is this relentless attitude that has helped the Tar Heels win a mind-blowing 21 of the 29 national championships that have been decided in the history of collegiate women's soccer. Only two other schools in the country have won as many as two titles — Portland in 2002 and 2005 and Notre Dame in 1995 and 2004. Four other schools have won one each — George Mason (1985), Florida (1998), Santa Clara (2001) and USC (2007).

Carolina has also captured 20 of the 22 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships since the sport was given title status by the league in 1988, with its only two runner-up finishes coming after failing to prevail in penalty kick shootouts after overtime ties in tournament championship games in 1988 and 2004. UNC also won the initial 1987 ACC title when it was held in a round-robin format at the end of the regular season to determine the champion.

All told, the Tar Heels are 696-36-22 in the 31-year history of the program, a winning percentage of .938.

DORRANCE DATA

Head Coach Anson Dorrance is now in his 32nd season as the Tar Heels' head mentor. His teams have an all-time record of 696-36-22 (.938). Under Dorrance, UNC has won 21 national championships, including 20 NCAA crowns and one AIAW title, 19 regular-season ACC titles and 20 ACC Tournament championships. During his tenure, Dorrance's teams are 139-10-4 in ACC regular-season games, 57-0-3 in ACC Tournament matches and 106-7-1 in NCAA Tournament games.

Head Coach Anson Dorrance

When Carolina decided to make women's soccer a varsity sport in 1979, Dorrance became a two-sport head coach as he was already in his third year coaching the men's team at Carolina. Dorrance's brilliance at coaching women manifested itself almost immediately as it took just three years before the Tar Heels won a national championship, capturing the 1981 Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national title. Beginning with that championship, the Tar Heels have won 72.4 percent of the titles ever decided in the sport.

Carolina went on to claim three more national titles in a row after the NCAA began sponsorship of the sport in the fall of 1982. UNC netted NCAA championship game wins in 1982 over UCF, in 1983 over George Mason and in 1984 over Connecticut. The Tar Heels made it to the NCAA title game in 1985, but lost to George Mason 2-0 on the Patriots' home field – the first of only seven losses in NCAA Tournament play for Carolina to go along with 106 wins and a single tie.

A String of Nine Straight Championships

That loss to George Mason, remarkably, was the last time the Tar Heels lost any game in the decade of the 1980s. Beginning with the season opener in 1986 and continuing into the 1990 season, Dorrance's Tar Heels won 97 games and tied six matches over a stretch of 103 contests.

In 1986, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the finals at Fairfax, Va. A year later, the Tar Heels downed Massachusetts 1-0 on the Minutewomen's home field in the title game. The 1988 campaign saw the Tar Heels defeat NC State 4-1 in the title game in Chapel Hill. A year later, Carolina defeated Colorado College 2-0 in the championship contest at Raleigh, N.C.

During this era, the Atlantic Coast Conference also began championship competition with UNC winning the inaugural title in 1987 in a round robin format. NC State claimed the 1988 title on a penalty kick shootout against the Tar Heels but Carolina regained the title in 1989 and has won all but one conference tournament championship since then.

Connecticut snapped a 103-match UNC unbeaten streak that had started in 1986 by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. on September 22, 1990. The Tar Heels rebounded from that lone defeat to win their fifth straight NCAA crown in 1990, avenging the only blemish on their season by beating the Huskies in the final game 6-0 in Chapel Hill.

Tackling The Challenge of the National Team

Along the way, Dorrance's love of a challenge prompted him to take the coaching job for the U.S. Women's National Team just a year into its existence in 1986. In a short time, Dorrance took the National Team to the vertex of the world's most popular sport. On November 30, 1991, Dorrance led the U.S. to a 2-1 win over Norway to claim the initial World Cup championship. The win came just six days after assistant coach Bill Palladino, acting as interim head coach, led UNC to a 3-1 NCAA title game win over Wisconsin for Carolina's sixth NCAA title in a row.

Dorrance was the architect of the World Cup triumph, a win tinged with a Carolina Blue hue. Not only was Dorrance coaching the U.S. team, but nine of the 18 players competed collegiately at North Carolina and his assistant coach was former UNC player Lauren Gregg.

The next year, Dorrance assembled what many soccer observers have labeled the best college soccer team in history. That edition of the Tar Heels finished the season undefeated (25-0), claimed the ACC championship for the fourth straight year and won the NCAA title for the seventh consecutive time. Carolina's 9-1 NCAA championship game victory over Duke was as thorough as the final score would lead one to believe and a nonpareil way for the Heels to finish the year.

In 1993, UNC won the NCAA championship with an unsullied record of 23-0. The Tar Heels whitewashed George Mason 6-0 before a collegiate women's soccer record crowd of 5,721 fans at Fetzer Field. Mia Hamm capped her brilliant career at Carolina that day and went on to win unanimous national player of the year honors for the second year in a row.

92 Wins in a Row

Amongst all the coaching jobs that Dorrance has done during his career, the one that culminated in the 1994 NCAA championship might be the most impressive. Dorrance was able to rally the Tar Heels after arch rival Duke ended a 101-game unbeaten streak by beating Carolina 3-2 on October 19, 1994. The loss came 17 days after Notre Dame had snapped a 92-game Carolina winning streak by playing the Heels to a scoreless tie.

UNC ran the table after the loss to Duke and NCAA Tournament wins over NC State, Duke, Connecticut and Notre Dame added a 13th national title to Dorrance's coaching resume. Tar Heel midfielder Tisha Venturini was selected as the 1994 National Player of the Year, marking the seventh straight season in which the national player of the year came from the ranks of Carolina players.

The 1994 season presaged a sea change in the college game. With the proliferation of available talent and the vast increase in the number of college programs, parity was quickly becoming a part of the women's game. While the Tar Heels still led the way in terms of consistent excellence, one of the big news stories of 1995 was the fact Carolina failed to win the national title in women's soccer for the first time in 10 years. The Tar Heels, seeded No. 1 in the NCAA bracket with a 25-0 mark, were upset by Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

Relinquishing the title to Notre Dame in 1995 only fueled the team's competitive fire the next season. Dorrance took a team that returned nine starters and molded it into another victorious unit by season's end. In the ninth game of the season, Notre Dame defeated the Tar Heels 2-1 in overtime and becoming the first college team to beat UNC in successive meetings. Carolina regrouped and the Tar Heels whipped William & Mary, James Madison and Florida in the opening three rounds of the NCAA tourney before defeating Santa Clara 2-1 on its home field in the semifinals. Two days later UNC proved it was still at the acme of women's college soccer, beating defending champion Notre Dame 1-0 in overtime to claim the 1996 crown.

A Dynamite Defense in 1997

Dorrance turned in another magnificent coaching job as the Tar Heels wound up in the winner's circle again in 1997. Honored by Soccer Buzz and Soccer Times as the national coach of the year, Dorrance spearheaded a Carolina campaign that resulted in a 27-0-1 record. The 27 victories were an NCAA record and UNC tied its own NCAA record by shutting out 22 opponents during the campaign.

In 1998, Carolina had another brilliant season, going 25-0 before falling 1-0 to second-seeded Florida in the NCAA championship game. Despite the disappointing end to the season, the Tar Heels outscored their opponents by a 98-7 margin and won their 10th straight ACC title.

After seeing the 1998 NCAA title elude the Tar Heels, Carolina fans were able to find solace in the performance of the U.S. team which competed in the 1999 Women's World Cup. The 20-person roster featured eight Tar Heel players — Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly, Carla Overbeck, Cindy Parlow, Tisha Venturini, Tracy Noonan, Lorrie Fair and Tiffany Roberts — and UNC alumna Lauren Gregg as a U.S. assistant coach. This Tar Heel-laden composition of the World Cup Team, which reclaimed the championship it had relinquished in 1995, once again stood as a testament to the indelible contributions Dorrance had made to U.S. soccer prominence.

Back-To-Back National Championships

Basking in the glow of a World Cup title featuring so many ties to the program, Carolina's collegiate dominance seemed to be in doubt when just eight games into the 1999 season the Tar Heels sported a 6-2 record. The two losses were the most in a season since 1985. But Dorrance led Carolina to 18 wins in a row and another NCAA championship. Lorrie Fair earned national player of the year accolades, but in many regards the 1999 team was a squad without star presence, just incredible unity of purpose.

A year later, the 2000 Carolina team suffered the program's most losses in a season in 20 years but again won ACC and NCAA titles. Three times in six NCAA Tournament games, Carolina trailed its opponent 1-0 midway through the second half. All three times, the Tar Heels came from behind to win 2-1 in regulation time en route to another national title.

After a two-year hiatus from the awards stand, UNC reclaimed the NCAA title in 2003 with its most dominant team in a decade. Carolina became the first team since the Tar Heels of 1993 to go undefeated and untied, finishing with a perfect 27-0 mark in winning its 15th straight ACC title and its 18th national championship. Led by co-national players of the year Lindsay Tarpley and Catherine Reddick, Carolina outscored its opponents 132-11, including an amazing 32-0 margin in six NCAA Tournament matches.

In 2006 Dorrance turned in one of the best coaching jobs of his career in piloting UNC to its 19th national championship. He was the unanimous choice as the national coach of the year after leading Carolina to a 27-1 balance sheet. The Tar Heels accomplished these heroics while starting six freshmen for most of the season. In fact, seven freshmen took the field for the start of the second half of UNC's 2-1 NCAA championship game win over Notre Dame. It was a team which lost its season opener at Texas A&M, its first setback in a lidlifter since 1983, and then stormed back to win 27 matches in succession.

In 2008, UNC captured its 20th national championship and its 20th ACC title with a team that started 4-1-1 but went 21-0-1 in its final 22 matches. Led by national player of the year Casey Nogueira, who led the nation in scoring with 25 goals, Carolina defeated two undefeated teams in the College Cup, beating UCLA 1-0 and Notre Dame 2-1, to win the NCAA title. Nogueira scored two second-half goals to rally UNC past the Fighting Irish in the final game.

Last season the Tar Heels turned in one of the best defensive efforts in school history en route to a 21st conference title and a 21st national crown. Senior defender Whitney Engen was a National Player of the Year honoree and the defensive MVP of the ACC and she led a team that allowed only 12 goals and posted 19 shutouts. Recovering from a 7-3 ACC regular season, Carolina allowed only two goals in the final 11 games of the season as the Tar Heels rallied to win the ACC Tournament hardware over Florida State 3-0 and the NCAA Tournament title over Stanford 1-0.

Dorrance's Start In Coaching

Ironically, Dorrance's career plans did not originally include coaching a women's team. He began his coaching career at Carolina as the designated head coach for the men's team in 1976 during Marvin Allen's last year as head coach. He took over as men's coach the following year and served for 12 years in that role, posting a 172-65-21 record. His team won the ACC Tournament championship in 1987. He took the Tar Heels to the 1987 NCAA College Cup semifinals and the second round of the 1988 NCAA Tournament. Dorrance's .708 winning percentage is tops among Carolina's men's soccer coaches all-time and his 172 wins rank third in school history behind current UNC head mentor Elmar Bolowich, whom Dorrance brought to Carolina as an assistant men's coach in 1987, and Dr. Marvin Allen, the founder of the program in 1947, and the man who coached Dorrance at Carolina.

Since being named the women's head coach in 1979, Carolina has a 696-36-22 record under Dorrance and only four times in 31 years have the Tar Heels lost more than two games in a single season. The Tar Heels' 20 NCAA crowns are more than any other women's NCAA Division I sports program in history (Stanford women's tennis is second with 16), and the 21 national championships overall are more than any single sports program in ACC history, men's or women's.

A Host of National Players of the Year

Over the years, 17 different Tar Heels have been named national players of the year under Dorrance's direction — April Heinrichs in 1984 and 1986, Shannon Higgins in 1988 and 1989, Kristine Lilly in 1990 and 1991, Mia Hamm in 1992 and 1993, Tisha Venturini in 1994, Debbie Keller in 1995 and 1996,

CAROLINA'S INFLUENCES ON THE GAME

- Current and former UNC players have been staples on World Cup rosters as both players and coaches. The 1991 U.S. World Cup roster featured nine players and two coaches; the 1995 U.S. World Cup roster featured seven players and two coaches; the 1999 U.S. World Cup roster featured eight players and one coach; the 2003 U.S. World Cup roster featured six players and two coaches; the 2007 U.S. World Cup roster featured five players as well as one player on the Canadian roster.

- Olympic Team rosters have also been filled with Tar Heel coaches and players. The 1996 U.S. Olympic Team included seven players and two coaches, the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team included six players and two coaches; the 2004 U.S. team included six players and two coaches; and in the 2008 Olympic Games four players competed on the U.S. squad and one player was on the Canadian roster.

- Forty-eight Carolina players have earned caps with the United States National Team since its founding in 1985.

- Twenty-seven current and former players are listed on 2010 U.S. National Team player pools. Twelve are part of the full national team pool, six are part of the U23 pool, five are part of the U20 player pool and four are members of the U18 player pool. Tar Heels are also present on the Canadian National side with one on the full team and two in the U20 player pool.

- North Carolina featured the largest alumnae class of players drafted by teams for the inaugural season of Women's Professional Soccer (WPS) in 2009 with 13. Four Tar Heels played on WPS champion Sky Blue FC in 2009. In 2010, four Tar Heels will be taken in the top eight picks of the WPS draft and seven players were chosen overall. In the 2010 season, UNC was represented by 17 players in WPS.

Staci Wilson in 1995, Cindy Parlow in 1996, 1997 and 1998, Robin Confer in 1997, Lorrie Fair in 1999, Meredith Florance in 2000, Lindsay Tarpley in 2003, Catherine Reddick in 2003, Heather O'Reilly in 2006, Yael Averbuch in 2006, Casey Nogueira in 2008 and Whitney Engen in 2009.

North Carolina begins the 2010 season with a 295-12-6 all-time home record. In the program's 31-year history, totaling 754 games, Carolina has shut out opponents 493 times and has been held scoreless in just 26 games.

Coach of the Year Honors Galore

Dorrance has been named national coach of the year for coaching both women and men. He earned women's national honors in 1982, 1986, 1997, 2000, 2003 and 2006 and he was named men's national coach of the year in 1987.

Dorrance has been named the Southeast Region coach of the year in 1989, 1996, 1997, 2001, 2003, 2006 and 2008. In 1987, 1990, 1991, 1993, 1996, 2001, 2003, 2004, 2006 and 2008, he was named the ACC Women's Soccer Coach of the Year.

In 1996, Dorrance received the highest honor possible from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America when he won the Walt Chyzowych Award for lifetime coaching achievement. In 2007, he won the Bill Jeffrey Award from the NSCAA for raising intercollegiate soccer to new heights through his long-term dedication to the game.

Honors from His Peers at Carolina & Beyond

Dorrance was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece in 1988, Carolina's highest honorary society which includes Carolina students, faculty and staff.

In 1994, Dorrance added another cherished honor when the athletic department designated him a "Priceless Gem." This honor is reserved only for those individuals who have contributed in extraordinary ways to the successful athletic climate at the University.

In 1995, Dorrance's program was profiled in a full-length documentary film entitled, "Dynasty." The movie focused in particular on the Tar Heels' amazing nine-year national championship run from 1986 through 1994, and it included in-depth interviews with both current and former Tar Heel players. Another documentary about the UNC program, "Winning Isn't Everything," was released in DVD in 2008.

In the fall of 2003, Sports Illustrated On Campus magazine named UNC's women's soccer program as the greatest college dynasty of all-time.

Dorrance has also coauthored two books. He combined with Tim Nash to write "Training Soccer Champions" in 1996. It sold out in its first printing and did equally well in its second press run. Dorrance coauthored the award-winning "The Vision of a Champion" with Gloria Averbuch. It was published in 2003 and almost immediately went to second and third printings. In 2006, "The Man Watching" by former Sports Illustrated writer Tim Crothers debuted to smashing reviews and amazing sales success.

Following the U.S. victory in the Women's World Cup in 1991, Dorrance received an Honorary All-America Award, one of the most prestigious of its kind, from the NSCAA.

In 1991, Soccer America named Dorrance one of the 20 most influential men in American soccer during the previous two decades. Soccer America followed that up in 1995 by naming Dorrance as one of the 25 most influential people in the history of American soccer. Dorrance was one of only three coaches on that list and the only women's coach tapped.

In 2002, Dorrance was selected for the North Carolina Soccer Hall of Fame, joining his mentor, Dr. Marvin Allen, who was in the initial class inducted into the Hall.

Dorrance In His College Years

A 1974 University of North Carolina graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and philosophy, Dorrance originally enrolled at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas, where he spent one year studying and playing soccer. He then transferred to Carolina to play for Marvin Allen.

Dorrance's natural gifts on the pitch led to his selection to the All-ACC Team three times as an undergraduate and he won All-South Region honors in 1973. He was named in 2002 as one of the Top 50 men's soccer players in Atlantic Coast Conference history. He was also one of the top intramural sports performers on the Carolina campus during his days as an undergraduate.

Prior to his permanent return to Chapel Hill, he organized youth soccer leagues in both Connecticut and North Carolina. He was the founder of both the North Carolina Youth Soccer Association and the North Carolina Senior Soccer Association.

Dorrance has an "A" level coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was a charter member of the NCAA Women's Soccer Committee and he also served as the women's chairman of the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America. He is the former chairman of the NCAA Men's and Women's Soccer Rules Committee and one of the few coaches in the country to qualify as a national staff coach for the U.S. Soccer Federation and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He is also involved in training coaches and awarding coaching licenses. In the summer of 2003, he was named to the Board of Directors of the National Soccer Hall of Fame.

Dorrance's summer soccer camps for women are the most popular in the nation. The camps sell out well in advance. Dorrance has even hosted a version of the famous camp in England.

Dorrance also made a seamless transition to his role as the color analyst on the WUSA Game of the Week on Saturday afternoons as shown on PAX TV from 2001-03.

The Dorrance Family

Dorrance was born on April 9, 1951, in Bombay, India, and he is married to M'Liss Gary Dorrance. The couple celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary in August 2010. M'Liss is a former professional ballet dancer who teaches at the Ballet School of Chapel Hill, which she cofounded in 1980.

She was recently awarded emeritus status following her 2007 retirement from Duke University where she taught and served the Dance Program for 32 years. When M'Liss is not watching soccer games on the weekends she is rehearsing her choreography for Chapel Hill Dance Theatre productions.

The Dorrances have three children.

Michelle, a graduate of New York University, is an internationally renowned rhythm tap dancer residing in New York where she is on faculty at Broadway Dance Center. Michelle was the cover and feature article of the March 2008 issue of Dance Magazine and is currently celebrating her third anniversary performing in STOMP, NYC, the off-Broadway hit, following a year in the national tour production.

Natalie, a UNC graduate, is currently on leave from the Greensboro public schools. She and attorney husband David Harris, a UNC law school graduate, are the proud parents of Finley Dorrance Harris. The Dorrance family's first grandchild was born in April 2009.

Donovan, a 2009 graduate of Chapel Hill High School, is a sophomore at Carolina and continues to pursue interests in music and theatre.

Dorrance's soccer origins stem from his youth when he lived overseas. He resided in India, Kenya, Ethiopia, Singapore, Belgium and Switzerland while growing up. His family moved all around the world following his father's assignments as an international businessman. Additional members of the Dorrance Clan residing in Chapel Hill include Anson's mother, Peggy, and his brother Peter and wife Dolly Hunter, all avid fans of the UNC women's soccer team.

Asst. Coach Bill Palladino

It can be easily argued that the University of North Carolina possesses the best women's collegiate soccer coach in the country in the person of Anson Dorrance. Perhaps even more amazing is that Carolina can legitimately claim that it has the second best coach in the nation in Tar Heel chief assistant coach Bill Palladino. Palladino is a man who decades ago could easily have left UNC and secured his choice of some of the best head coaching opportunities in the women's ranks.

In 2010, he returns for his 31st year as head coach Anson Dorrance's right hand man, demonstrating the tremendous loyalty he has to the program he helped Dorrance shape at UNC. Palladino's success in developing brilliant defensive schemes has been a key element in leading Tar Heel teams to 20 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament championships, 19 ACC regular-season titles and 21 national collegiate titles since he joined the staff in 1980.

The defenses he has coached at Carolina have allowed only 359 goals in the 754 games the Tar Heels have played in their history, an average of only 0.47 goals per game. Carolina's defense was the key to the success of the 2009 team which outscored its opponents 63-12 en route to winning UNC's 21st national championship. The Tar Heels' patented flat back three defense of Kristi Eveland, Whitney Engen and Rachel Givan, along with goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris, recorded 19 shutouts on the season as the Tar Heels went 23-3-1. UNC posted a pair of long shutout streaks in 2009 as Tar Heel opponents went without goals for both eight and seven game stretches. The team allowed only two goals in nine post-season contests.

Under Palladino's expert direction, Carolina defensive units have consistently been a critical cog in Tar Heel runs to national championships. In 1987, the Tar Heels set an NCAA record on the defensive end of the field unlikely to ever be matched. The team allowed only two goals all season. Goalkeeper Anne Sherow led a team effort which produced 22 shutouts in 24 games. Those 22 shutouts stand as an NCAA record that has only been equaled once and that was by another UNC team exactly one decade later. While going 27-0-1 in 1997, the Tar Heels posted 22 shutouts in the team's 28 games.

In 2003, Palladino worked his magic again on the UNC defense with a great assist from Chris Ducar due to Palladino's absence for much of the season while being the assistant coach with the U.S. Team competing in the 2003 World Cup. That defense did not allow a single goal in six NCAA Tournament games as the Tar Heels outscored their opponents 32-0. It stands as the most effective defensive effort ever in an NCAA Tournament.

In 2002-03, he served as the top assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team before retiring from that role in January 2004. In that capacity, Palladino served as the chief assistant to U.S. National Team head coach April Heinrichs. In the fall of 2003, Palladino split his duties between UNC and the National Team as it competed in the 2003 Women's World Cup. The U.S. women won the bronze medal in that competition.

Palladino came aboard as an assistant coach during the program's second year in existence and has been coaching along side Dorrance through the last 30 years.

In 1991, Palladino was named South Region Coach of the Year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He took over the helm for much of that season as interim head coach while Dorrance directed the efforts of the U.S. Women's National Team in its successful quest to win the 1991 Women's World Cup title in China. Palladino was head coach of the Tar Heels for 10 games that season and Carolina was victorious in each contest, including three games in the NCAA Tournament. North Carolina won the 10th of its 21 national titles with a 3-1 win over Wisconsin on November 24, 1991 at Fetzer Field. He became the first assistant coach to have ever won head coaching regional coach-of-the-year honors.

"For me, Bill is the reason I enjoy my job so much," says head coach Anson Dorrance. "He is the reason the players enjoy the program so much. Bill is a big part of the reason there is such great team chemistry.

"Bill is a team builder. He has helped us develop a philosophy toward player development that encourages an informal but effective rapport between players and coaches," Dorrance continues. "Bill is a terrific counterbalance against my fiery and intense nature. That balance makes our program unique and fortunately very successful."

Palladino's coaching career with the Carolina women's team began in 1980. A Chapel Hill native, Palladino joined the staff that year after three seasons as an assistant coach -- also to Dorrance -- with the UNC men's soccer program from 1977-79.

The 59-year-old Palladino holds an "A" coaching license from the U.S. Soccer Federation. He was head coach of the South team at the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival in Denver, Colo. He also served as head coach of the Raleigh Wings in the W League in the late 1990s. Under his stewardship, the team completed an undefeated season in 1998 and added a second W League crown in 1999.

At Carolina, his duties include on-field coaching, recruiting, directing camps, scouting and administration.

A 1973 University of North Carolina graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology, Palladino played varsity men's soccer at Carolina for three seasons from 1970-72 under the aegis of legendary coach Marvin Allen.

Palladino expanded his already-vast repertoire from 2001-03 when he served as a sideline reporter and color commentator for national and regional WUSA telecasts.

Palladino has two children from his first marriage. Twins Bill and Suzi live in Charlotte, N.C. and San Francisco, Calif., respectively.

Palladino is currently married to former Tar Heel soccer star Wendy Gebauer Palladino, who earned All-America honors while playing at UNC from 1985-88 and was a member of the U.S. Team that won the initial Women's World Cup in 1991. Bill and Wendy are the parents of Zachary Ryan, who was born on January 14, 2005. Wendy is employed as associate vice president and investment officer with Wells Fargo Advisors.

Tom Sander, Director of Women's Soccer Operations

A vital component of the UNC women's soccer scene since 1992, Tom Sander was named the program's Director of Women's Soccer Operations in the spring of 1998. Previously, he served as the head student manager and an administrative assistant for six years in the women's soccer office.

Sander coordinates all team operations at home and on the road and serves as a liaison for the program with the University administration, Educational Foundation, program scholarship donors, soccer alumni and the Friends of Carolina Soccer.

A native of Lancaster, Pa., Sander attended Hempfield High School and then graduated from UNC with a B.S. degree in biology in 1993.

The 2010 season marks Chris Ducar's 15th year as the goalkeeper coach and recruiting coordinator for the University of North Carolina women's soccer program. Ducar's prowess as a coach was recognized at the conclusion of the 2006 season when he was named the national assistant coach of the year by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He also won the same assistant coach of the year award for the NSCAA's South Region. Ducar has helped lead Carolina to NCAA championships in 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003, 2006, 2008 and 2009 and to ACC championships in 13 of the past 14 years.

A member of the Olympic Development Program Staff in Regions I and III, Ducar is a National Clinician for the U.S. Youth Soccer Association and belongs to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Ducar has been a mainstay in coaching U.S. women's national teams in international events. He was the goalkeeper coach for the U21 National Team which won the 1999 Nordic Cup title in Iceland. Former UNC player

Siri Mullinix was the championship keeper for the U.S. in that tournament, and she was the starter for the U.S. National Team in the 2000 Olympics when the Americans won the silver medal.

Ducar served as goalkeeper coach for the 1998 U.S. U21 women's national team which competed in the Nordic Cup. The United States won the silver medal in that competition. He also served as goalkeeper coach for the 1997 U.S. U21 national team that won the gold medal in the 1997 Nordic Cup in Denmark.

In addition to his duties as an assistant coach at UNC, Ducar has also served as an assistant coach for the women's team at UNC Greensboro from 1995-98 on a part-time basis before he became a full-time coach at Carolina. In 1995, he was the goalkeeper coach at Greensboro College. In 1990-91, he was an assistant coach at UC-Santa Cruz.

During his time at Carolina, Ducar has tutored three first-team All-America goalkeepers in Siri Mullinix, Jenni Branam and Aly Winget. Mullinix was a three-year starter for UNC, and Branam and Winget were both four-year starting goalkeepers. Winget set the ACC records for solo shutouts in a season with 16 in 2003 and in a career with 35. In 2006, Anna Rodenbough nearly equaled Winget's mark as she posted 15 solo shutouts in helping the Tar Heels win the NCAA championship. He did one of his best coaching jobs of his career in 2009 as senior Ashlyn Harris, a National Team member, led Carolina to another national title as Carolina posted 19 shutouts and allowed a mere 0.44 goals per game against the nation's toughest schedule. Harris was named first-team All-ACC as well as an Academic All-America.

In the summer of 2000, Ducar served as the head coach for the North Carolina women's state team that won the regional championship and advanced to compete in the Donnelly Cup national tournament over Thanksgiving weekend.

Ducar graduated from the University of Missouri in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science. He was a Dean's List student at UM and went on to earn a teaching credential from San Jose State University in 1995.

Ducar played on the club soccer team at Missouri from 1986-90. Post-collegiately, he played for Inter A.C. in Fremont, Calif., helping the team claim the 1990 Premier Division title. He was also a member of the San Francisco Bay Blackhawks of the APSL when they won the 1991 national championship. He played for the San Jose Oaks, the 1992 U.S. Open Cup champions.

Former national director for Soccer Plus Goalkeeper Schools in Connecticut, he spent much of his time traveling the United States organizing camps and clinics for Soccer Plus. He has also served as director of Go For Gold Soccer Schools, World Soccer and Santa Cruz Soccer Camps in California and for David Bricic's Goalkeeper Schools in Missouri.

Ducar holds coaching licenses from the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (premier license) and the United States Soccer Federation (national "A" license). Ducar is on both the United States Soccer Federation and National Soccer Coaches Association of America National Goalkeeping Staffs.

Carolina Women's Soccer History

A Program of Remarkable Consistency

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is one of the most successful sport programs in the history of college athletics. In its first 31 years, Carolina has won 21 national championships and played in 26 of 29 College Cups (final four teams) sanctioned by the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (IAIW) in 1981 and National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) from 1982-2009.

Under head coach Anson Dorrance, who assumed the coaching reins when the program was elevated to varsity status in 1979, the Tar Heels have staked a claim as one of the great dynasties in intercollegiate athletics history. In fact it was judged the greatest dynasty in the opinion of Sports Illustrated On Campus magazine, which featured the Tar Heels on its cover in 2003.

Heading into the 2010 season, the Tar Heels have posted a 696-36-22 overall record in the history of the sport. When Carolina defeated Notre Dame in the 2006 national championship game, the program officially reached a point where it had won 600 more games than it had lost for the first time in history. It accomplished that feat while having played only 675 matches.

Carolina won the first official national championship, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (IAIW) title, in 1981 and has since won a total of 20 of 28 NCAA championships with titles coming in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2003, 2006, 2008 and 2009. The only eight years since 1981 in which the Tar Heels did not win the national crown were 1985 when they lost to George Mason in the NCAA championship game, 1995 when they lost to eventual NCAA champion Notre Dame in the NCAA semifinals, 1998 when they fell to Florida in the NCAA championship game, 2001 when Santa Clara beat Carolina in the championship contest, 2002 when they were upset by Santa Clara in the NCAA semifinals, 2004 when Notre Dame became the first school other than Carolina to win more than one national championship, 2005 when Portland won its second title and 2007 when USC claimed its first championship. The last seven times UNC has failed to advance in NCAA play, the games have either been decided by one goal or resulted in a tie where the advancing team earned its way to the next round in a penalty kick shootout.

In fact, the last time Carolina lost any game, anywhere by a margin of more than one goal was 25 years ago on November 24, 1985 when George Mason beat UNC 2-0 in the NCAA championship game. Carolina has played 606 games since that loss to George Mason and 53,232 minutes and nine seconds have ticked off stadium clocks since the Tar Heels last fell by more than a single goal.

Carolina's women's soccer program has won 20 NCAA titles. When UNC won the 2009 NCAA title over Stanford, Carolina women's soccer became the first women's sports program to claim 20 NCAA crowns and head coach Anson Dorrance became the first coach in NCAA history to earn 20 titles coaching a single sport -- men or women.

The Tar Heels' 21 total national championships are more than any other sports program has won, men's or women's, in Atlantic Coast Conference history. In addition, UNC women's soccer teams have won 21 of the 23 official ACC championships decided since league play started in 1987.

An Amazing Array of Talent

Well over 100 different Tar Heel players in the past 31 years have earned the distinction of being named All-Americans as either first-, second-, third-team or honorable mention choices and most of those players have won All-America honors in multiple seasons during their Carolina careers. In 31 campaigns, Carolina has had 69 selections to either the NSCAA coaches or Soccer America first-team All-America squads, 44 more than second-place Notre Dame on the list.

Seventeen players -- April Heinrichs, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Debbie Keller, Staci Wilson, Cindy Parlow, Robin Confer, Lorrie Fair, Meredith Florance, Catherine Reddick, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch, Casey Nogueira and Whitney Engen -- have been named the National Player of the Year in at least one season, some winning those honors on multiple occasions. Lori Henry, Shannon Higgins, Kristine Lilly, Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Cindy Parlow, Lorrie Fair, Lindsay Tarpley, Heather O'Reilly, Yael Averbuch, Casey Nogueira and Whitney Engen have been saluted as the Atlantic Coast Conference's Player of the Year, Offensive Player of the Year or Defensive Player of the Year. Carolina has had a total of 132 selections to the first- or second-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squads since the league began sponsorship of the sport in 1987, outflanking any other league school in that regard by a wide margin. UNC has also boasted the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament in 20 of the 22 tournaments held since the first event in 1988.

The numbers associated with the program's success boggle the mind. Five Tar Heels have been named ACC Freshman of the Year and seven have been named National Freshman Player of the Year. Anson Dorrance has been named national coach of the year on seven occasions and ACC coach of the year 10 times.

There are still more numbers that illustrate the dominance of the program. Ten Carolina women's soccer players have won the Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior athlete, the most recent honoree being Yael Averbuch in 2009. The recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the Female Athlete of the Year in the ACC has been a Tar Heel women's soccer player seven times, including Whitney Engen in 2010. UNC has had 142 selections for All-Tournament honors at the IAIW or NCAA national College Cups since 1981. The Tar Heels have boasted choices for the offensive, defensive or overall Most Valuable Player at the NCAA Tournament 32 times. On 89 occasions, Tar Heels have been tapped as All-ACC Tournament selections since that honor squad was started in 1991.

Lasting Relationship With The U.S. National Team

Many Carolina players have continued their playing careers as members of the U.S. National Team. Since the founding of the National Team program by the U.S. Soccer Federation in 1985, a total of 48 different Carolina players have earned caps with the National Team. Several other former Tar Heels have gone on to play for the national teams of other countries, including those of Canada, Denmark, The Netherlands, Iceland and Norway. Dorrance was the chief architect behind the initial success of the U.S. National Team, having coached that squad from its second year of existence in 1986 until he stepped down in 1994 to concentrate solely on his head coaching duties at Carolina.

Under Dorrance's brilliant coaching guidance, the U.S. won the first-ever Women's World Cup Championship in China in November 1991. Half of the 18-woman 1991 U.S. roster played collegiately for the Tar Heels. Seven players who competed collegiately in Chapel Hill were on the 1995 U.S. Team that captured third place at the World Cup. During the summer of 1996 at the Centennial Olympic Games, the U.S. roster was again filled with Tar Heel connections as the Americans captured the gold medal. Both of that team's assistant coaches and seven of the 16 players were Tar Heels, giving the gold medal the U.S. won a pronounced Carolina Blue tint. In the summer of 1999, eight more UNC players competed for the U.S. team that recaptured the World Cup title by outscoring China 5-4 on penalty kicks in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. Six more Tar Heels played for the 2000 U.S. Olympic Team that won the silver medal in Sydney, Australia under the leadership of head coach April Heinrichs, an '87 Tar Heel alumna.

The 2003 U.S. World Cup roster featured six Tar Heel players as the Americans claimed the bronze medal at that event. Six Tar Heels were also named by Heinrichs to the U.S. Team that played in the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. That team won the second gold medal for the U.S. in Olympic competition. The 2007 World Cup was played in China with five former Tar Heel players on the U.S. squad and one UNC player on the Canadian team. The Americans won the bronze medal in that event. In 2008, four Tar Heels were on the U.S. Olympic Team and one was on the Canadian side with the Americans winning gold for the third time in four Olympic soccer tournaments.

It All Started Way Back When

Having players compete in the World Cup and the Olympics was a passing thought when the program first began playing on a varsity level in 1979. The Tar Heels played their first game, a 12-0 win over the Duke University club soccer team on September 20, 1979. That first season saw Carolina compile a 10-2 overall record. Janet Rayfield, still the Tar Heels' third all-time leading scorer with 223 points, scored 30 goals that season.

In 1980, the Tar Heels won 21 of 26 games and were again led in scoring by Rayfield, who had 25 goals. Midfielder Nancy Clary became the first Tar Heel player in history to earn first-team All-America honors. The five losses were the most Carolina has ever suffered in one season. The 2007 team had four losses on its ledger and the 2000 and 2009 teams had three losses on their record. No other Tar Heel squad has ever lost more than two matches.

The 1981 season was an exciting year for the women's college game as the first-ever national champion was crowned during a 12-team, four-day tournament in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels provided their fans with many exciting moments during the course of the season, scoring a school record 172 goals. Led by 36-goal scorer Stephanie Zeh and getting 30 more tallies from Rayfield, UNC averaged an astounding 7.48 goals per game.

Following a 19-0 regular season and a win over Virginia in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (IAIW) regional tournament, the Tar Heels swept the IAIW National Tournament. After receiving a first-round bye as the top seed, Carolina defeated Massachusetts 6-0, Connecticut 5-0 and UCF 1-0 to take the championship. In the title game, the Tar Heels outshot the Golden Knights 30-8, scoring on a Diane Beatty goal off a Kathy Kelly corner kick with 19:36 left in the first half.

The NCAA Dynasty Kicks Off

The NCAA became the sport's governing body in 1982 and the Tar Heels celebrated by winning their second national championship in a row. Carolina opened the season with 10 consecutive victories to run its winning streak to 33 games over two seasons, but then it dropped back-to-back decisions to Missouri-St. Louis and Cortland State. Following that second loss, the Tar Heels won their final nine games, culminating in an NCAA title with a 2-0 win over UCF. Amy Machin's 22 goals and 59 points led the team in scoring and she notched one of the two goals in the championship game victory. Betsy Johnson came off the bench to score off a rebound late in the first half for the winning goal.

The 1983 campaign brought the arrival of April Heinrichs to the Carolina campus. The first dominant women's soccer player in the American game, who would later coach the U.S. National Team from 2000-05, Heinrichs was the most successful player of the 1980s in collegiate soccer and as one of the early stars of the U.S. National Team. In her freshman season, Heinrichs led the Tar Heels to their third straight national title as she scored 18 goals and totaled 47 points. Machin was again amongst the team's leaders in scoring with 19 goals. Only a 3-1 loss at Connecticut in the opening game of the season prevented UNC from having another perfect season. Carolina claimed its third title in a row as Heinrichs scored two goals in a convincing 4-0 win over George Mason in the NCAA championship match at Orlando, Fla.

In 1984, the Tar Heels were the No. 1-ranked team in the nation from season's start to season's finish and they capped their fourth straight national title campaign with a 2-0 win over Connecticut at Fetzer Field in the title game. The 1984 season marked the first of seven times UNC would play host to the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field. Heinrichs, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America (ISAA) National Player of the Year, led the team with 23 goals and 13 assists and Joan Dunlap was second on the squad with 21 goals and 10 assists. Carolina went 24-0-1 and won its first 17 games to run its winning streak to a then NCAA-record 36 games.

George Mason ended the 36-game winning streak by playing the Heels to a 1-1 tie on October 20, 1984. When College Cup weekend rolled around, the Tar Heels were taken to overtime in the national semifinals by California, but an Amy Machin goal with 9:05 left in the second extra period propelled the Tar Heels into the NCAA final against Connecticut. The championship game was played in front of 3,500 fans with Heinrichs and Dunlap scoring second-half goals to provide the Tar Heels with a 2-0 victory and a fourth straight national title.

In 2003, Sports Illustrated on Campus named the Tar Heel women's soccer program the greatest dynasty in collegiate athletics.

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...
Only four seasons with more than two losses

UNC has played 31 years of varsity soccer from 1979 through 2009. Only four teams have lost more than two matches in a season. The 1980 team finished 21-5, the 2000 team was 21-3, the 2007 team was 19-4-1 and the 2009 team was 23-3-1. Despite the three losses in 2000 and again in 2009, Carolina went on to win the NCAA championship each of those years.

Carolina Women's Soccer History

All Good Things Must Come to an End

The NCAA championship trophy took a one-year hiatus from Chapel Hill in 1985 as the Tar Heels lost the national championship game to host George Mason 2-0. Led by a 50-point season from April Heinrichs and a team-leading 19 goals from Carrie Serwetnyk, the Tar Heels finished the season 18-2-1. The 1985 campaign was one of just six seasons of a total of 31 in which Carolina has failed to win 20 games in a season. In fact, since going 10-2 in that initial 1979 campaign, the Tar Heels have won at least 18 games in each of the past 30 years.

After opening the 1985 season with a 3-3 draw against George Mason, Carolina ran off 12 straight wins and raised its collegiate record unbeaten streak to 57 games. Massachusetts eventually ended the streak with a 2-0 win over UNC in Amherst, Mass. Carolina went on to meet George Mason in Fairfax, Va., in the NCAA championship game. The Patriots scored a goal in each half and sent the Tar Heels home without the first-place trophy for the first time. At that time no one suspected that Carolina would not lose another game for five years and a stretch of over 100 games. In fact, the Tar Heels would never taste defeat again in the 1980s after that title game loss to GMU.

The 1986 campaign proved to be a season of redemption for the Tar Heels as seniors April Heinrichs and Marcia McDermott were determined to go out as winners. In 1986, Heinrichs was named National Player of the Year for a second time in her career, scoring a career-best 28 goals and totaling 69 points. McDermott set what was then the Carolina single-season record with 23 assists. The Tar Heels and George Mason met again, this time in the national semifinals, and Carolina came out on top 3-2 in overtime. Wendy Gebauer had two goals for Carolina and Heinrichs tallied the winner 5:50 into the first overtime period. Gebauer and Tracey Bates scored goals in the title game the next day against Colorado College in a 2-0 win. The Tar Heels found themselves back in familiar territory -- atop the victory stand after the NCAA championship game.

Shannon Higgins' Postseason Fireworks

The 1987 campaign was a year dominated by defense as a stifling Carolina unit allowed only two goals during the entire season and posted an NCAA record 22 shutouts, a mark equaled only once since—by the 1997 UNC team. The defensive unit leaders were ACC Player of the Year Lori Henry, sweeper Carla Werden and goalkeeper Anne Sherow. They anchored a defense which allowed only 52 shots and two goals in 24 games en route to posting a 23-0-1 record. Only a tie with William & Mary marred the Tar Heels' perfect record. Midfielder Wendy Gebauer's 15 goals and 40 points led the Tar Heel offense in 1987, but it was a second-half goal by sophomore midfielder Shannon Higgins which proved to be the margin of victory in a 1-0 win over Massachusetts in the NCAA final. That game, along with the semifinal win over California, were played in near-Arctic weather conditions at Amherst, Mass., making it one of the most memorable NCAA College Cups ever. In the championship game, the wind was so strong that it made attacking offensively going against the gusts a futile proposition. Fortunately for Carolina, the Tar Heels went against the wind in the first half of the championship game and they were able to play the Minutewomen to a standstill. UNC had the benefit of the wind in the second half and scored the game's only goal to capture another NCAA championship. Higgins' game-winning goal would be the first of three she would score in NCAA championship games in three successive seasons.

The 1988 season proved to be a challenging one for the Tar Heels as rival NC State threatened to steal the championship trophy and relocate it down I-40 to Raleigh. The teams battled to a pair of dramatic 1-1 ties, one in the regular season game at Raleigh and another in the ACC Tournament championship game on the Wolfpack's home field at Method Road Soccer Stadium. NC State actually won the ACC title in a penalty kick shootout 4-3. During the season, Carolina set an NCAA record for a collegiate soccer unbeaten streak. First, the Tar Heels topped their own women's record of 57 games without a loss and then it surged past the Penn State men's soccer team's 65-game record unbeaten streak for all of college soccer. As the 1988 Soccer America National Player of the Year Shannon Higgins was an electrifying force on the squad, directing playmaking duties and setting up goals from her attacking center midfield position. In the national championship game versus NC State, Higgins scored three goals in a 4-1 Carolina victory. That match was played in front of 4,500 fans at Fetzer Field, the largest collegiate women's soccer crowd in history at the time.

In 1989, Higgins again was voted the top player in the nation and she led the Tar Heels to another unbeaten finish and national title. Higgins was named the National Player of the Year by Soccer America, won the Hermann Trophy and the Honda Soccer Award, was the ACC Player of the Year and became the first ever recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She led the team in scoring with 48 points and scored the game-winning goal in the NCAA championship game for the third consecutive year against Colorado College in a 2-0 Tar Heel win. Freshmen Mia Hamm and Kristine Lilly scored 21 and 20 goals, respectively, although at that time it was a mere glimpse of that duo's future greatness in the world of women's soccer. Seniors Shannon Higgins, Julie Guarnotta, Ava Hyatt and Carla Werden closed out their four-year careers with a stunning 89-0-6 record and a quartet of NCAA championship rings.

The Greatest Game in Women's Soccer Lore

In 1990, Carolina again won the national championship, but did so with a mark in the loss column for the first time since November 24, 1985. On September 22, 1990, Connecticut ended the Tar Heels' national record unbeaten streak at 103 games by defeating the Tar Heels 3-2 in overtime at Storrs, Conn. Ironically, the Tar Heels would go on to avenge that defeat by routing the Huskies 6-0 in the NCAA championship game at Fetzer Field.

Following the loss at Connecticut, the Tar Heels fell out of the No. 1 spot in the ISAA poll for the first time since the second week of the 1986 season. Carolina regained the top spot by knocking off No. 1-ranked Virginia 3-0 late in the regular season and it then beat the Cavaliers again 2-0 in the ACC Tournament title game at Charlottesville, Va. The 1990 national quarterfinals matched the Tar Heels against old nemesis NC State in what would be one of the most dramatic games ever played in the sport's history. The Wolfpack held one-goal leads late in regulation time and again in the first overtime period, but both times the Tar Heels came back to tie the game on goals by Kristine Lilly. Finally, with just over two minutes remaining in the second overtime, Hamm sent a corner kick from the right side which Rita Tower headed in for the game-winning goal. After that dramatic game, which Soccer America dubbed the "Greatest Game in Women's Soccer History," the NCAA College Cup was played in Chapel Hill. Tower and Lilly each scored in the 2-1 semifinal win over Colorado College and six different Tar Heels scored in the championship game shutout of Connecticut.

In 1991, the Tar Heels had to defend their national title minus a host of spectacular players as well as its head coach. The top four leading scorers from the year before were not available to the team for much of the season. Kristine Lilly played the first 19 games of the season but departed prior to the start of the ACC and NCAA Tournaments to play in the 1991 World Cup in China. Mia Hamm, also on the World Cup Team, sat out the year as a redshirt. Rita Tower and Jill Jakowich were both rehabilitating knee injuries. Led by freshman mid-field sensation Tisha Venturini and senior forward Pam Kalinoski, who herself had battled back from a serious knee injury, UNC won 24 consecutive games to win the title, including the last 10 with assistant coach Bill Palladino at the controls after Dorrance had left to coach the U.S. in the World Cup in China. Lilly was the consensus National Player of the Year as well as the ACC Player of the Year. Venturini was the National Freshman of the

1992. Perhaps The Greatest Team Ever

The 1992 Tar Heels were what many observers called the best team in the history of collegiate women's soccer. It would be extremely difficult to argue to the contrary. Carolina rolled to a 25-0 record, a seventh consecutive NCAA title and an NCAA record for consecutive wins with 58 in a row by season's end.

The Tar Heels outscored their opposition 132-11 and trailed on just two occasions, once in a regular season victory at NC State and again in the NCAA final versus Duke. Both opponents' leads were short-lived. In the NCAA championship game against Duke, the Tar Heels rattled off nine successive goals after the Blue Devils drew first blood. Hamm led the nation with a school record 97 points on 32 goals and 33 assists, the latter mark also being a school record. She was the unanimous choice as National Player of the Year and was the ACC Player of the Year as well as the Most Valuable Player of both the ACC and NCAA Tournaments. Lilly and Venturini added 65 and 46 points, respectively, and joined Hamm as first-team All-Americans. The Tar Heels won the NCAA championship during an almost surreal 9-1 victory over Duke at rain-soaked Fetzer Field as Hamm became only the second player to post a hat trick in an NCAA final game. But the most remarkable feat of the season may have been a mid-season West Coast road trip in which Carolina won four games in four days by a combined margin of 22-2. Included were wins over three nationally-ranked opponents. The Tar Heels vanquished UC-Santa Barbara 5-1, Portland 6-1, Saint Mary's 6-0 and Stanford 5-0 in that four-day stint.

Saving Goodbye to a Legend

In 1993, Hamm was again a unanimous selection as the National Player of the Year as she led the country in scoring with 68 points on 26 goals and 16 assists. She helped lead the Tar Heels to a 23-0 record as Carolina outscored the opposition, 92-15. Carolina hosted the NCAA College Cup at Fetzer Field for the fourth successive year and emerged with another national championship. Hamm finished her career with 103 goals, 72 assists and 278 points, each a school record. She also set NCAA Tournament scoring records for career and single tournament points, goals and assists. In 1994 she was named the recipient of the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's Top Female Athlete for the second consecutive year. Tisha Venturini missed several weeks at midseason with a broken bone in her foot but returned in time to reap Most Valuable Player honors at the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels claimed their fifth straight league crown by virtue of a 4-1 win over Duke. Venturini was named first-team All-America for the third time. Before an NCAA record crowd of 5,721, UNC dismantled George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA final after the Tar Heels had whipped Massachusetts 4-1 in the semifinals.

The 1994 season was another triumphant campaign as the Tar Heels went 25-1-1 and won the NCAA championship for a ninth straight year. Venturini was the season's most impressive performer. She was unanimously selected the National Player of the Year by seven organizations and received first-team All-America honors for the fourth time in her career. Venturini, who led the Tar Heels with 21 goals and 13 assists for 55 points, was the ACC Player of the Year, MVP of the ACC Tournament and Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the NCAA Tournament. It was the third time in her career in which she was named the ACC Tournament MVP and the second time she earned MVP honors in the NCAA Tournament. Freshman Staci Wilson earned first-team All-America honors, was the National Freshman of the Year and the Most Outstanding Defensive Player in the NCAA Tournament.

The Tar Heels had two incredible streaks of excellence snapped in the regular season. An NCAA record winning streak reached 92 contests before Carolina and Notre Dame battled to a 0-0 tie in St. Louis on October 2, 1994. On October 19, 1994, Duke handed the Tar Heels a 3-2 defeat at Fetzer Field. That loss snapped a 101-game unbeaten streak for the Tar Heels dating back to September 22, 1990. The setback was also Carolina's first home loss at Fetzer Field since October 25, 1980, a streak of 137 games. The Tar Heels and Blue Devils met twice more during the 1994 campaign and Carolina came away with a 4-2 win in the ACC Tournament championship game and a 3-1 win in the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Venturini had three goals in the ACC final, the first hat trick in the history of the Tournament at that point. Angela Kelly netted a pair of goals against Duke in the NCAA quarterfinals. The College Cup was held in Portland, Ore., where Venturini stole the show in the final two games of her college career. She capped her brilliant four years at Carolina by leading the Tar Heels to a 3-0 win over Connecticut in the semifinals and a 5-0 triumph over top-seeded Notre Dame in the final. Venturini scored twice in the championship game.

The 1995 season saw the Tar Heels' national championship streak end at nine seasons in a row. The previous year's senior class of 10 players was one of the most dominant in the history of the game. Carolina entered the 1995 campaign an inexperienced team with only three seniors and with a host of new starters on the field. Dorrance quickly molded the young players into a cohesive unit and the Tar Heels reeled off 25 successive wins while playing the nation's toughest schedule. Carolina won its eighth ACC title in nine years by sweeping through the tournament field and outscoring its opponents 16-0 in the three games. UNC dispatched Vanderbilt 4-0 in the NCAA second round after getting a bye in the first round as the tournament's top seed. Seventh-ranked Santa Clara fell victim to the Tar Heels 2-0 in the quarterfinals at Fetzer Field before UNC was beaten in the semifinals on an own goal in a 1-0 loss to fourth-ranked Notre Dame. What was then a women's soccer record crowd of 7,212 watched that Tar Heel loss, only the sixth loss at home in school history. Standout performances abounded during the 1995 campaign. Four Tar Heels earned first-team All-America honors -- forward Debbie Keller, forward Cindy Parlow, defender Staci Wilson and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan. Keller and Wilson were named co-National Players of the Year by Soccer Digest.

Mining Olympic Gold

During the summer of 1996, Carolina's soccer fame grew as the Olympic Games held their first ever medal competition in women's soccer. The U.S. won the gold medal, beating China 2-1 in the final match with the help of a cast that had pronounced Carolina Blue hue. Both assistant coaches for the team, Lauren Gregg and April Heinrichs, were Carolina graduates. Seven of the 16 players on the roster were either Carolina alumnae or Tar Heel players returning for the 1996 season. This cadre included Mia Hamm, Tisha Venturini, Carla Overbeck, Kristine Lilly, Cindy Parlow, Staci Wilson and Tiffany Roberts.

Led by the play of co-National Players of the Year Debbie Keller and Cindy Parlow, UNC returned to the pinnacle of the collegiate women's soccer world during the 1996 campaign. After a sluggish start that saw the Tar Heels struggle through their first eight matches yet escape unscathed, Carolina fell to Notre Dame in the season's ninth game, 2-1 in overtime. The Fighting Irish thus became the first collegiate team in history to beat Carolina two times in a row. Shortly thereafter, Dorrance reconfigured his defensive scheme to a flat back three alignment and Carolina has stuck with that defensive alignment ever since. While winning its 14th national championship, Carolina steamrolled through the final 17 games of the campaign to finish with a 25-1 record. UNC had spirited opposition in the ACC Tournament as Carolina claimed its eighth league crown in a row with wins over Florida State 7-1, Virginia 5-2 and Clemson 4-1. Junior forward Robin Confer was named the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament. The Tar Heels were the No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament despite the fact that Notre Dame had beaten Carolina during the regular season and both teams had only one loss heading into postseason play. Carolina shut out its first three opponents in the NCAA Tournament and then received a stiff challenge from homestanding Santa Clara in the semifinals. Earlier in the season the Tar Heels had escaped against SCU on a goal in the last minute of play by Keller. This time against Santa Clara, goals late in the second half by Cindy Parlow and Laurie Schwoy gave the Tar Heels a 2-1 victory. Two days later, Carolina avenged its last two defeats to Notre Dame by beating the second-seeded Fighting Irish 1-0 in overtime in the NCAA title match. Senior forward Debbie Keller ended her career on a splendid note by scoring the

A Dominant 1997 Season

Carolina was again the best team in the country in 1997, led by co-national players of the year, forwards Cindy Parlow and Robin Confer. The Tar Heels ended the season at 27-0-1 with only a regular-season, lightning-shortened 2-2 tie against Notre Dame blemishing the perfect mark. UNC allowed a paltry eight goals in 28 games and tied the NCAA record for shutouts in a season with 22, a mark that had originally been established by the 1987 NCAA championship team. Carolina's toughest matches of the year came in the final three rounds of the NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels outlasted Harvard 1-0 in the quarterfinals, came from behind to defeat Santa Clara 2-1 in the semifinals as Fair and Confer scored second-half goals and then blanked UConn 2-0 in the title game on goals by Parlow and Confer.

The 1998 team was an outstanding one although it failed to win the national championship. Led by seniors Cindy Parlow, Siri Mullinix and Tiffany Roberts, the Tar Heels won the first 24 games of the season heading into the NCAA College Cup at Greensboro, N.C. Carolina defeated Portland 1-0 in the semifinals on Meredith Florance's goal in the 150th minute of play, just 22 seconds before the match was going into penalty kicks to decide which team would advance to the finals. In the championship game, Florida scored in the first 10 minutes of play and Carolina was never able to produce an equalizer.

Reclaiming the Crown

The 1999 campaign started in unsettling fashion as Carolina lost two games in September and stood 6-2 just eight games into the season. It was the first time Carolina had lost two games in the same season since 1985.

But a strong senior class, led by National Player of the Year Lorrie Fair and which also included Rebekah McDowell, Lindsay Stoeker and Beth Sheppard, rallied the troops. Over the final 18 games of the season, Carolina allowed only five goals, including only one in the final 13 games of the campaign. The signature Tar Heel defense, keyed by Fair and Stoeker, and featuring first-team All-America Danielle Borgman and freshman

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...

23 years between season opening losses Carolina lost its 1983 season opener at Connecticut 3-1. It would be 23 years before the Tar Heels would lose another season opener, falling 1-0 at Texas A&M in double overtime in 2006. In 31 years of play, the Tar Heels are 28-2-1 in season-opening games and 29-1-1 in home openers.

goalkeeper Jenni Branam refused to let Carolina lose down the season's stretch run. Carolina won its 11th straight ACC championship and it capped the season with brilliant play in the NCAA College Cup, beating Penn State 2-0 in the semifinals to avenge a regular-season loss to the Nittany Lions and Notre Dame 2-0 in the championship game. Junior Meredith Florance and senior midfielder Beth Sheppard scored the goals in the championship game for Carolina.

In 2000, the Tar Heels won their 12th successive ACC championship and its 17th national championship. UNC's three losses marked only the second time in history Carolina had lost more than two times in a single year, the other instance being 1980. All three losses came on the road against ACC teams and in each of the one-goal losses the Tar Heels surrendered a goal on a penalty kick. Prior to 2000, the Tar Heels had lost only one ACC game in their history. UNC rebounded to sweep three opponents easily in the ACC Tournament, avenging its regular-season loss to Florida State in the semifinals 3-0 and winning against Duke 4-0 in the finals. Seeded fifth entering the NCAA Tournament, its lowest seed ever, UNC beat Wake Forest 5-0 in the second round, avenging another of its regular season losses. In three of the last four games of the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels had to rally from 1-0 deficits with less than 25 minutes to play. Carolina beat Virginia 2-1 in the third round on late goals by Laurie Schwoy and Meredith Florance and then rolled past Connecticut 3-0 in the quarterfinals behind a pair of goals by National Player of the Year Meredith Florance. The Tar Heels rallied to beat top-seeded Notre Dame 2-1 in the NCAA semifinals on goals by Kim Patrick and Jordan Walker and then overcame UCLA 2-1 in the national championship game. Freshmen scored the winning goals in the final two games of the season, both in the final 10 minutes of play. Jordan Walker scored to beat Notre Dame in the semifinals and Catherine Reddick had the game-winner in the title game after Florance had tied the match with less than 15 minutes to play.

2003 Team Excels With Aplomb

Despite brilliant regular seasons and a pair of ACC championships, UNC went without NCAA titles in both 2001 and 2002, losing both times to Santa Clara. The Broncos beat the Heels in the championship game in 2001 and in the semifinals in 2002 by 1-0 and 2-1 scores, respectively.

The Tar Heels returned to the throne of college soccer in 2003 with one of the best teams, if not the best team, in the history of the game. For the first time since 1993, when the Tar Heels also accomplished the feat, a collegiate women's soccer team completed a season with an undefeated and untied record as the Tar Heels matched the NCAA record for wins in a season by finishing 27-0.

In three of the first six matches of the campaign, UNC had to go to overtime to win road games against Washington, Texas and Texas A&M. Lori Chalupny scored the game winner at UW and Maggie Tomecka and Libby Guess had game-winners in the Lone Star State matchups.

UNC was led by an impressive offensive array of talent which was spearheaded by co-National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley, who led the nation in total points with 73 and in assists with 27. Tarpley became the first player since Mia Hamm in 1993 to be named ACC Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP while also leading the ACC in scoring. Tarpley's 19 points in the NCAA Tournament were a UNC record, highlighted by 11 assists, a record in NCAA play in a single tournament.

Senior forward Alyssa Ramsey finished with 10 goals and 25 assists, the second-highest total of assists in the nation, and consensus National Freshman of the Year Heather O'Reilly shook off the effects of a broken leg suffered in June by scoring 13 goals in the final 12 games of the season, including eight tallies in UNC's six NCAA Tournament contests, the most goals ever scored by a Tar Heel in a single NCAA Tournament. O'Reilly won NCAA Tournament offensive MVP honors and Catherine Reddick won the defensive award. Three Tar Heels earned All-America honors on defense including Honda Soccer Award and Hermann Trophy winner Catherine Reddick, a consensus first-team All-America choice. Senior Carmen Watley also copped All-America honors as did sophomore goalkeeper Aly Winget who finished second in the nation in goals against average and posted 16 solo shutouts, an ACC season record.

UNC outscored its opponents 113-11 on the season and was at its best in NCAA play when it scored 32 goals while not allowing a single tally in six games, a tournament record for defensive prowess. Carolina's opposition in the Tournament was not easy as the Tar Heels had to beat four conference champions en route to the title while beating No. 3 Santa Clara in the quarterfinals and No. 2 UCLA in the semifinals by identical 3-0 scores.

The 2004 and 2005 seasons produced another two ACC regular season titles for Carolina as well as an ACC Tournament title in the latter year. UNC's 10-member senior class in 2005, led by 2003 National Player of the Year Lindsay Tarpley and three-time consensus first-team All-America midfielder Lori Chalupny, finished its career with only four losses. The class also included All-America midfielder Kacey White and All-America defender Kendall Fletcher and goalkeeper Aly Winget, who set the ACC record with 35 career solo shutouts.

Carolina returned to the top rung of college soccer in 2006 with a team that started seven freshmen in the second half of the NCAA championship game against Notre Dame. UNC lost its season opener at Texas A&M 1-0 in double overtime, its first loss in a lidifter since 1983. A week later, standing at 2-1, the Heels trailed UConn 2-0 at halftime before rallying for a 3-2 win with three second-half goals. That second 45 minutes of soccer turned the Tar Heels' season around and sent them on the way to a 10-0 ACC mark and a thrilling overtime win over Florida State 2-1 in the ACC championship game on a goal by senior Libby Guess. Altogether, the freshman-laden squad ran off wins in its final 27 matches of the campaign. In the NCAA Tournament, the Tar Heels rallied to beat Texas A&M in the quarterfinals on three second-half goals, scored two goals in the final seven minutes to beat UCLA in the semifinals and beat co-No. 1 Notre Dame 2-1 in the championship contest. Both Yael Averbuch and Heather O'Reilly earned national player of the year awards and O'Reilly was the offensive MVP of the College Cup for the second time.

After a 19-4-1 season in 2007, Carolina returned to the top of the college soccer ranks in 2008 as it won its 20th national championship and its 20th ACC title. Consensus National Player of the Year Casey Nogueira led the nation with 25 goals and her two goals in the second half of the NCAA title game rallied the Tar Heels past No. 1-ranked Notre Dame 2-1. Carolina, which finished the year 25-1-2, had to beat undefeated teams in both the NCAA semifinals and finals as UCLA and Notre Dame both headed into the College Cup without having lost in 2008. Carolina also won the ACC Tournament without allowing a goal in three games. UNC needed a goal in double overtime by Ali Hawkins to rally past Texas A&M 2-1 in the NCAA quarterfinals at Fetzer Field and then a week later beat UCLA 1-0 in the semifinals on a penalty kick goal by Yael Averbuch. Notre Dame scored in the opening minute of the national championship

Amazing Carolina Soccer Fun Fact...

25 20-win seasons

Carolina has won 20 or more games in 25 of 31 varsity seasons. Nevertheless, three of the teams who did not win 20 games still won NCAA titles. They were the 1982, 1983 and 1988 teams.

match but Nogueira tied the score on a free kick early in the second half and then won the game with a spectacular, world class goal with just over two minutes left on the clock.

UNC's NCAA title run in 2009 was fueled first and foremost by defense. UNC posted 19 shutouts in 27 games and allowed only 12 goals all season. A preseason No. 1 team with 11 players returning with starting experience, Carolina beat eventual NCAA semifinalist UCLA 7-2 in the season opener. In the fourth game of the season, the Tar Heels defeated Notre Dame 6-0 in the debut of the Fighting Irish's new soccer stadium. By midseason, the Tar Heels were not clicking on all cylinders, however. Nogueira was struggling with her scoring touch while Tobin Heath and Ashlyn Harris missed time with the National Team. A season-ending injury to Nikki Washington was a huge setback and Ali Hawkins and Courtney Jones also missed time with injuries. Carolina lost three times in the regular season in ACC road games to Virginia Tech, Florida State and Miami but rebounded to win the ACC Tournament with a 3-0 win over FSU in the final as Nogueira scored twice and was named MVP. In the end, the defense of National Player of the Year Whitney Engen, Kristi Eveland and Rachel Givan and goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris carried the Tar Heels to shutouts in 10 of the last 11 games of the season. In the College Cup, UNC held Notre Dame and undefeated and untied Stanford to no goals in 180 minutes of play. Nogueira had the game-winner against the Fighting Irish in the semifinals and then Jessica McDonald scored less than three minutes into the championship game in a pair of 1-0 triumphs.

As Carolina prepares for the 2010 season the challenge for Dorrance will be to try to improve upon numbers which are already staggering in nature, including a 696-36-22 overall record, a 295-12-6 all-time record at Fetzer Field, a total of 493 defensive shutouts in the 754 games while being shut out offensively in only 26 of 754 games.

Casey Nogueira celebrates one of her two second-half goals which rallied UNC past Notre Dame 2-1 in the 2008 NCAA championship game.

Note On Overtime Games

From 1979-1997, overtime games were formatted to include 2 mandated 15-minute overtime periods played out in their entirety. So all games indicated as overtime games during those 19 years are indicated with a 2OT designation and were all decided in 2 mandatory 15-minute periods. Beginning in 1998, the overtime process was changed to a golden goal format with the exception of ACC and NCAA Tournament games. A goal scored in overtime ended the contest at that point in time. In 1999, the golden goal format went into effect for ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament games as well. In 1998-2001, overtime periods were 15 minutes in length. Beginning in 2002, the process remained golden goal but the overtime periods were reduced to 10 minutes in length. From 1999 to the present, games that went to overtime are listed as either OT or 2OT depending on when the golden goal was scored. The 1998 NCAA semifinal match versus Portland was a four overtime sudden death match. The game would have gone to penalty kicks after the fourth overtime period.

Alyssa Ramsey and Catherine Reddick celebrate Carolina's 2003 win over Connecticut in the NCAA final.

*The NCAA recognizes only solo shutouts for individual statistical purposes. A shared shutout goes down as a team shutout but is not credited to any individual. Despite extensive records research by UNC Athletic Communications, determining the goalkeepers who played in shutout games in 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1984, 1985, 1987 and 1988 did not yield complete and accurate results.

Since the founding of the U.S. Women's National Team in 1985, Carolina players have played an integral role in the team's success through the years. A total of 48 University of North Carolina players have earned caps playing on the United States National Team since its creation in 1985 through games of July 11, 2010.

Twelve former Tar Heels who are current members of the 2010 U.S. full national team pool include midfielder Yael Averbuch, defender Lori Chalupny, defender Whitney Engen, goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris, midfielder Tobin Heath, midfielder Kristine Lilly, midfielder Allie Long, midfielder Casey Nogueira, midfielder Heather O'Reilly, midfielder Lindsay Tarpley, midfielder Kacey White and defender Cat Whitehill.

Chalupny, O'Reilly, Heath and Tarpley were all on the U.S. Team which played in the 2008 Olympics in China, the most recent major competition for the U.S. National Team where the squad claimed the gold medal.

The U.S. National Team was coached by UNC alumna April Heinrichs, '86, from 2000-05. Heinrichs retired as the team's coach after leading the Americans to the 2004 Olympic gold medal in Athens, Greece.

One of the top highlights of all the National Team's events was the play of the 1999 U.S. World Cup Team which recaptured the world championship with a 5-4 shootout victory over China in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on July 10, 1999. Rarely has any athletic team captured the imagination of the American public as that team did. Forty percent of the U.S. roster was the product of Carolina's program led by starting forwards Mia Hamm and Cindy Parlow, starting midfielder Kristine Lilly and starting defender Carla Overbeck, the team's captain. Reserve roles were played by midfielders Tisha Venturini and Tiffany Roberts, defender Lorrie Fair and goalkeeper Tracy Noonan.

Parlow tallied the game-winner as the U.S. ousted Brazil 2-0 in the semifinals. After battling China to a 0-0 tie through 120 minutes of play in the final, the U.S. triumphed 5-4 on penalty kicks with Tar Heels Overbeck, Lilly and Hamm providing three of the five successful chances from the mark in the penalty shootout.

In the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, the U.S. reclaimed the gold medal it had relinquished to Norway in 2000. That squad was coached by Heinrichs and six Tar Heels played on the squad, including Hamm, who was competing in her final major international event before retiring from the sport. During the Olympic Tournament, Lilly and Parlow continued as veteran mainstays of the team and they were joined by three younger generation

2008 Tar Heel Olympic Gold Medalists: Heather O'Reilly, Lindsay Tarpley, Tobin Heath & Lori Chalupny

Carolina & U.S. Women's National Team

Tar Heels -- Cat Whitehill, Heather O'Reilly and Lindsay Tarpley. O'Reilly scored the game-winning golden goal in overtime as the U.S. beat Germany 2-1 in the semifinals and then Tarpley scored the opening goal of the match as the Americans beat Brazil 2-1 in overtime for the gold medal. Tar Heel players accounted for seven of the 12 goals scored by the U.S. in the 2004 Olympics.

Tar Heel head coach Anson Dorrance was one of the chief architects of the national team's amazing success. He began coaching the team in 1986 and he served in that role for eight years before retiring in 1994 to concentrate on his work as the Tar Heels' head coach. During Dorrance's coaching tenure, he led the U.S. National Team to a record of 65-22-2.

In 1991, Dorrance took the U.S. Team to China to compete in the first-ever Women's World Cup. Nine of the 18 players on the team were Carolina graduates or active UNC players at that time, including team captain April Heinrichs, a 1986 alumna of Carolina. The Americans won that initial World Cup, beating Norway 2-1 in the championship match.

Although the U.S. would be dethroned by eventual champion Norway four years later in the 1995 Women's World Cup semifinals and had to settle for the bronze medal, the Americans came back to claim the 1996 Olympic gold medal in women's soccer. The U.S. defeated Norway in sudden death overtime in the semifinals and then downed China in the gold medal match 2-1 before a capacity crowd at the University of Georgia's Sanford Stadium. That U.S. Olympic team featured seven Carolina players.

The U.S. National Team took home the silver medal at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia with six more Tar Heels on that team. The National Team won the bronze medal at the 2003 World Cup with six Carolina players on that squad and it captured bronze again at the 2007 World Cup.

National Players of the Year

April Heinrichs

April Heinrichs was the first of the truly great players in Carolina's storied history. She was also the first true superstar in women's soccer worldwide.

Heinrichs was named a first-team All-America forward in 1984, 1985 and 1986 by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association (later to be the NSCAA). She was also a third-team All-America in 1983. The ISA named her National Player of the Year in both 1984 and 1986.

Heinrichs particularly shone in postseason play. She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the 1983, 1984, 1985 and 1986 NCAA Tournaments. In 1984, she was the overall MVP of the NCAA Tournament. In 1985 and 1986, she was the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the tournament. Heinrichs' performances in those tournaments helped the Tar Heels win NCAA championships in 1983, 1984 and 1986. Her No. 2 uniform was the first to be retired by the women's soccer program.

Heinrichs' greatness is evidenced by her place in the Carolina record books. She shares the school record for assists in a game with five against Warren Wilson on October 29, 1983. She is second in Carolina history in scoring with 225 points. Her 87 goals are third in school history, and she is also tied for eighth in assists with 51.

Heinrichs led the Tar Heels in scoring four times — in 1983 with 47 points, in 1984 with 59, in 1985 with 50 and in 1986 with 69.

Soccer America recognized her as the Player of the Decade for the 1980s.

She was a member of the U.S. Women's National Team from 1986-91 earning 47 caps and scoring 37 goals. Heinrichs served as the captain of the 1991 U.S. team which won the championship at the first ever Women's World Cup in China.

After Heinrichs' playing days, she made a transition into the coaching arena. In 1996, she served as assistant coach for the U.S. Olympic Team, which won the gold medal. She was the head coach of the U.S.

Women's National Team from 2000-05, leading the team to an 87-17-20 record in five years. Heinrichs coached the team to an Olympic gold medal in 2004 in her last major competition as the squad's head coach.

Her first college coaching position was as head coach at Princeton in 1990, where she compiled an 8-6-1 mark.

She then became head coach at Maryland for five years from 1991-95, compiling a mark of 56-40-7. In 1995, she was named ACC Coach of the Year after leading the Terrapins to their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance.

She then served four years as the head coach at Virginia. She went 52-27-7 there with four NCAA Tournament appearances. Heinrichs was named head coach of the U.S. National Team in 2000 and she retired at the conclusion of the 2004 season. She then coached for one year at UC-Irvine in 2006 before accepting a post with the U.S. Olympic Committee in December 2006 as Performance Services Team Leader.

A native of Denver, Colo., she graduated from Carolina in 1986.

She was named a first-team All-America midfielder by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in both 1988 and 1989.

Higgins was also named to the first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference squad in 1987, 1988 and 1989, winning the ACC Player of the Year award in 1989.

The University of North Carolina honored her with the Patterson Medal in 1990 as the outstanding senior student-athlete at the school.

Also in 1990, Higgins won the first-ever Mary Garber Award given by the Atlantic Coast Sports Media Association to the female athlete of the year in the conference.

Higgins had a memorable career in postseason play for the Tar Heels.

She was named to the All-Tournament Team at the NCAA Tournament in 1987, 1988 and 1989. Higgins was the Offensive Most Valuable Player of the 1988 NCAA Tournament after she scored three goals in Carolina's 4-1 victory over NC State in the championship game.

Her jersey number (No. 3) is one of 17 retired numbers in Carolina women's soccer history.

Higgins is ranked 16th in career scoring at Carolina with 129 points and she is 20th in goals scored at Carolina with 39. She is tied for eighth in Carolina history with 51 assists.

In 1988, she led the ACC in scoring with 43 points. For three consecutive seasons, she led the conference in assists. She had 11 assists in 1987, 17 assists in 1988, and 18 assists in 1989.

Kristine Lilly

Kristine Lilly's tenure on the U.S. National Team has earned her the distinction of being one of the most outstanding players in women's soccer history. As of July 11, 2010, Lilly had 345 caps with the U.S. National Team, 70 more than Mia Hamm's 275 career caps which rank second.

Lilly played in her fifth World Cup in 2007. As of July 11, 2010, she was the second-leading scorer in National Team history with 130 goals and 363 points, ranking only behind Hamm in those two statistics.

Lilly was twice named National Player of the Year at Carolina, winning the award in 1990 and 1991. Soccer America honored her during both campaigns, while the Missouri Athletic Club, the Honda Soccer Award, the Hermann Trophy and the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America all gave her their awards in 1991.

In 1993, she earned the Patterson Medal as the outstanding senior athlete at the University. She was the ACC Player of the Year in 1991 while winning the ACC Tournament's Most Valuable Player award in 1990. Soccer America named her the National Freshman of the Year in 1989.

In postseason play, Lilly was named the Most Outstanding Offensive Player in the 1989 and 1990 NCAA Tournaments. She scored 10 goals and had seven assists for 27 points in nine career NCAA Tournament matches. The Tar Heels won national championships in all four of her years at Carolina (1989-92) and UNC compiled a record of 93-1-2 during Lilly's tenure.

She is fifth in school history in scoring with 197 points, fourth in goals with 78 and tied for 17th in assists with 41. In 1990, Lilly ranked second in the nation in scoring with 52 points.

When it comes to experience internationally, Lilly has no equal. She has participated in more than 80 percent of the matches the U.S. women's team has ever played. That gives her more international match appearances than any other player -- man or woman -- in the history of the U.S. Soccer. The U.S. Soccer Federation named Lilly its Player of the Year in 1993.

Lilly was a member of the U.S. National Team, which won the Gold Medal at the 1996 Olympics and the 2004 Olympics.

She also helped the U.S. win the 1999 World Cup just as she had in 1991. Lilly scored two goals and had one assist during the 1999 competition. She converted a key penalty kick in the final against China as well as clearing what would have been a sure Chinese goal off the goal line in overtime before the match went to penalty kicks.

Her jersey number 15 was retired by the University of North Carolina. She received her degree from Carolina in Radio, Television & Motion Pictures in 1993.

Lilly played for the Boston Breakers in the WUSA for three seasons. She returned to professional soccer in 2009 as a member of the new Boston Breakers franchise in WPS.

Mia Hamm

Mia Hamm has attained the status of being recognized as one of the world's most talented and well-known female athletes in any sport.

FIFA named her the Women's World Player of the Year in 2001 and 2002, the first two years in which the world's governing body had bestowed the award.

Her fame expanded well off the pitch. People Magazine named her one of the 50 Most Beautiful People in the World in 1997. Corporations have contracted with her for major endorsements, including Gatorade, Pepsi and Pert. Nike named the largest building at its world headquarters in Beaverton, Ore., after her in 1999.

She was one of the stars of the U.S. team which won the title at the 1999 World Cup, an event which propelled the popularity of women's soccer in the U.S. to unheard of heights. Hamm converted a key penalty kick in the victory over China in the championship game.

Hamm was the 1994 recipient of the Honda Broderick Cup given to the Outstanding Female Athlete in college sports. She is the only UNC athlete to ever win the award. She received the 1994 Patterson Medal as the outstanding senior athlete at Carolina.

The ACC honored Hamm with the 1993 and 1994 Mary Garber Awards as the ACC's Female Athlete of the Year. She also won the ACC Player of the Year award three times and was a three-time unanimous first-team All-America selection. In 2002, she was named the outstanding female athlete in the first half century of the ACC.

Hamm helped lead UNC to NCAA championships in 1989, 1990, 1992 and 1993. She was the unanimous choice as college soccer's National Player of the Year in 1992 and 1993. Hamm won the NCAA Tournament MVP awards for offense in 1992 and 1993. In 1989 and 1992, she was the MVP of the ACC Tournament.

Hamm led the nation in scoring in 1990, 1992 and 1993, setting the NCAA single-season record for scoring with 97 points in 1992. Hamm also holds the UNC record for assists with 33 in 1992. She scored 32 goals in 1992, the second-highest total in UNC history.

Before retiring from soccer at the conclusion of the 2004 season, Hamm had been a member of the U.S. National Team since 1987. She was 15 years old when she first played for the team, making her the youngest woman ever to play for the National Team.

She ended 2004 as the world's all-time leading scorer with 158 goals and 144 assists for 460 points. Her 158 international goals are the most of all-time, man or woman. She went out on a high by winning her second Olympic gold medal in 2004.

In 1999 she established the Mia Hamm Foundation to raise funds and awareness for bone marrow transplant patients and families and to provide more opportunities for young girls in athletics.

She received her degree in political science. She is married to Nomar Garciaparra, Major League Baseball All-Star. They have twin daughters born in 2007.

National Players of the Year

Tisha Venturini

Tisha Venturini won championships at every level in her playing career. She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a Women's World Cup championship and the WUSA's Founders Cup championship. The others were also Tar Heels -- Mia Hamm and Carla Overbeck.

Her career at Carolina got off to a fast start as she won Soccer America's National Freshman of the Year accolade in 1991 to complement her ACC Freshman of the Year award. That season she led the NCAA in scoring with 21 goals and 16 assists for 58 points.

Venturini would go on to be the unanimous selection as the 1994 National Player of the Year after leading Carolina to a fourth straight national championship. She was recipient of the Hermann Trophy and was also named Player of the Year by the Missouri Athletic Club, the Honda Soccer Award, the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, Soccer America, Soccer News and College Sports.

She was the recipient of the 1995 Patterson Medal given to the outstanding senior athlete at the University.

In 1995, she also won the Mary Garber Award as the Outstanding Female Athlete in the ACC. She was the ACC Player of the Year in 1994 and was also named first-team All-ACC and first-team All-South four times.

Confer never missed a game in her career at Carolina. She shares the Carolina record for most games played and most games started in a season with 28 in 1997.

An inspired performance in the 1997 NCAA Tournament led to her being named the Most Valuable Offensive Player of that competition. She scored a goal late in the second half to lift UNC to a 2-1 NCAA semifinal win over Santa Clara. Two days later, she scored the insurance goal in the waning minutes in the Tar Heels' 2-0 victory over Connecticut in the championship game.

Catherine Reddick did not earn her first starting assignment in a Carolina uniform until the final game of her freshman year, which also happened to be the NCAA championship contest against UCLA in 2000. Not only did Reddick score the game-winning goal with 7:41 to play in that game, she was also named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the NCAA College Cup.

A few months later, April Heinrichs, the head coach of the U.S. National Team, tapped Reddick for her first National Team cap. From the start, Reddick found herself in the starting lineup on defense as she has gone on to earn 134 caps while scoring 11 goals. Reddick earned starting spots for the U.S. in the 2003 World Cup as well as on the 2004 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic Team squad. She was a member of the 2007 World Cup Team but she missed the 2008 Olympics because of injury.

She continued her playing days at Carolina and despite missing much of her junior and senior years because of National Team commitments, Reddick developed into one of the top collegiate defenders in history. She culminated her career by being named the National Player of the Year following the 2003 season as she won the Honda Soccer Award as well as the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy.

After being named a first-team freshman All-America in 2000, Reddick went on to become one of Carolina's most decorated players in history during her final three years. She was a consensus first-team All-America in 2001, 2002 and 2003. In each of those years, she was also named first-team All-ACC.

As a senior, Reddick was limited to playing in only 13 matches because of her commitments while competing in the World Cup but still scored six goals and had five assists for 17 points. As she was rehabbing from the broken leg in 2003, she had three goals in the ACC Tournament and then exploded in the NCAA Tournament with an 18-point performance on eight goals and two assists. Those eight goals are the most in UNC history in a single NCAA Tournament.

In the summer of 2004, O'Reilly played with the U.S. National Team in Greece in the hopes of winning an Olympic gold medal. With the U.S. and Germany tied 1-1 in overtime of the semifinal game, O'Reilly blistered the back of the net off a Mia Hamm assist to catapult the Americans into the gold medal match. A few days later the college sophomore possessed an Olympic gold medal after the U.S. beat Brazil in the final match.

In 2006, she led the Heels to 27 straight wins and the national title. She was the offensive MVP of the College Cup after scoring four goals and adding six assists in NCAA play. She scored the insurance goal in the 2-0 NCAA semifinal win over UCLA, scored the first goal of the NCAA final against Notre Dame and assisted on the eventual game-winning tally against the Fighting Irish.

Following her senior year she won the NCAA's prestigious Today's Top VIII Award. No Tar Heel student-athlete had won the award since 1984 and it was the crowning jewel of her college career. The award is the highest annually bestowed by the NCAA for athletic prowess, academic achievement and community service.

O'Reilly now plays for Sky Blue FC of the WPS.

Yael Averbuch

At the conclusion of the 2008 women's soccer season, senior midfielder Yael Averbuch became the 15th Tar Heel in history to earn the right to have her uniform number retired as a National Player of the Year honoree.

Averbuch was a national player of the year honoree when UNC won the national championship in 2006 and she co-captained the Tar Heel squad in 2008 when it again won the NCAA title.

In four years as a member of the Carolina soccer team, Averbuch helped lead the Tar Heels to two NCAA Championships and four ACC titles. At the same time, she excelled academically, maintaining a 3.7 grade point average while majoring in psychology.

Averbuch started a school-record 104 games during her career, never missing a game in her four years and starting all but one. She finished her career scoring 32 goals and passing for 29 assists for a total of 93 career points.

Averbuch holds the record for scoring the fastest goal in collegiate women's soccer history. In a game on September 3, 2006 at Yale, Averbuch scored in only four seconds, sending the direct kick at the start of the game 55 yards from midfield directly in the Bulldogs' goal.

A three-time first-team All-America honoree and a three-time All-ACC selection, she was named national player of the year as a sophomore by Soccer Buzz magazine. That same year she was the third highest vote getter for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy presented by the NSCAA. She was also the 2006 ACC's Offensive Player of the Year.

In December 2008, she was named a recipient of the NCAA's Today's Top VIII Award, an NCAA honor that each year recognizes eight student-athletes who are outstanding in athletics, academics, leadership and community service. She is only the third Tar Heel athlete to win the award since 1984 and the second UNC women's soccer player to win the honor in the three years.

Averbuch was named the 2008 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America of the Year for women's soccer, recognizing her as the top student-athlete in her sport. She was a first-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America in 2008 after being named to the second team in 2007 and the third team in 2008. In 2008, she was also named the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

Averbuch was regularly named to the UNC Dean's List, was a three-time selection for the ACC Academic Honor Roll and she was the ACC Scholar-Athlete of the Year for women's soccer in 2007 and again in 2008. She was named to the ACC All-Academic Team each of her four years in a Tar Heel uniform. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa while also being inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece.

Averbuch also represents the U.S. as a member of the National Team. Beginning in the spring of 2009, she began play for Sky Blue FC of New Jersey in the inaugural season of WPS, winning the championship in the league's inaugural year.

Casey Nogueira

The consensus National Player of the Year selection in 2008, Casey Nogueira became the 16th Tar Heel in history to earn player of the year accolades. Nogueira was one of the most prolific goal scorers in ACC history and she scored clutch goals throughout her career in Carolina Blue & White.

As both a junior and senior Nogueira pulled off the double of being named the ACC Tournament Most Valuable Player and the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the NCAA College Cup. She played on Carolina teams which won ACC Tournament championships all four years and captured NCAA titles in 2006, 2008 and 2009.

Nogueira finished her Tar Heel career with 55 goals and 29 assists for 139 points. She was Carolina's leading scorer her final three years in school. Her standout season scoring wise was 2008 when she scored a nation-high 25 goals and had eight assists for a 58-point total, the most points by a Tar Heel in a season in five years.

Following her junior season she won National Player of the Year accolades from the Honda Soccer Award, Soccer America, Soccer Buzz, Top Drawer Soccer and Soccer News Network. She was the runnerup for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy. In July 2009, she won the Mary Garber Award as the ACC's top female athlete during the 2008-09 school year. She was the first Tar Heel to win the award since Cindy Parlow captured it 10 years earlier.

Nogueira won first-team All-America honors in 2007 & 2008 and was a second-team All-America as a senior in 2009.

Nogueira, who played her high school soccer at Raleigh's Broughton High School, will go down in history as scoring some of the most important goals in UNC lore. As a freshman, she came off the bench to score the game-winning goal with 6:29 to play in UNC's 2-0 NCAA semifinal victory over UCLA. Two days later, against Notre Dame in the final, she earned her first career start and she assisted on Heather O'Reilly's goal at 17:57 and then scored the game-winner on a header at 46:28 in the eventual 2-1 Tar Heel win.

En route to winning the 2008 NCAA title, Nogueira was named ACC Offensive Player of the Year and ACC Tournament MVP. In the national championship game against undefeated Notre Dame, the Tar Heels fell behind in the opening minute of play. Nogueira tied the game on a free kick at 51:08 and then she won the game for Carolina with a spectacular goal from the left side with just 2:06 left on the clock.

In her senior year, Nogueira had only six regular-season goals but she exploded in the post season for seven tallies. She scored twice in the ACC Tournament championship game against Florida State while being named MVP. In NCAA play, she had game-winning assists in the first round against High Point and in the championship game against Stanford. She scored the game-winner versus Maryland in the third round, had three goals in the quarterfinal win over Wake Forest and again had the game-winner against Notre Dame in the semifinals.

Whitney Engen

Whitney Engen's career is the personification of the fact that persistence pays off. The California native was never named to the first-team All-ACC Team until her senior year but that same year she emerged as Carolina's 17th selection as a National Player of the Year when she won the Honda Soccer Award. Rarely is a defender honored with such an award, particularly when the competition includes the two best forwards in the nation and the country's top midfielder, her own teammate, Tobin Heath.

But such was the fate for Engen who in 2009 was the ACC's Defensive Player of the Year as well as the ACC's Women's Soccer Scholar-Athlete of the Year. She also earned second-team ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America honors in her senior season.

Engen, who played primarily midfield in high school in Rolling Hills Estates, Calif., came to UNC in 2006 as one of the top recruits in the nation but she was somewhat overshadowed at the start by the likes of Heath, Casey Nogueira and Nikki Washington. It would not stay that way for long. When she arrived at Carolina, UNC had a need at striker and Engen stepped in and played center forward her first two seasons. She had 12 goals and 13 assists for 37 points as a freshman on UNC's 2006 national championship team. No assist was bigger than the one on Casey Nogueira's second half goal, which proved to be the game-winner in Carolina's 2-1 win over Notre Dame. Engen again started as a sophomore in the forward line and had six goals and eight assists.

With the loss of Jessica Maxwell, Robyn Gayle and Ariel Harris off the defense of the 2007 team, Coach Anson Dorrance looked to Engen to make the switch to center back as a junior and the results were amazing. In her junior and senior years, Carolina won back-to-back ACC Tournament and NCAA Tournament championships, posted 36 shutouts and limited teams to less than half a goal a game.

A four-time ACC All-Academic selection and regular on the UNC Dean's List, Engen finally began to earn the athletic recognition she deserved in 2008 when she was a third-team NSCAA All-America and second-team

All-ACC choice.

As a senior everything came together for Engen and she was not only the winner of the Honda Award but also a first-team All-America choice by the NSCAA and Soccer America. She was named first-team All-ACC, the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and the defensive MVP of the NCAA College Cup. Carolina finished 23-3-1 overall and won its 21st national championship. The Tar Heels pitched 19 shutouts and had strings of seven and eight shutouts during the year. The Tar Heels were third in the nation in goals against average at 0.43 and most impressively they shut out 10 of their last 11 opponents including clean sheets against No. 5 Notre Dame and No. 1 Stanford in the NCAA College Cup.

Engen was selected in the first round of the 2010 WPS draft by the Chicago franchise.

U.S. National Team Captain Carla Overbeck

Carla Werden Overbeck is a proven winner. She is one of only three women in history to win an NCAA title, an Olympic gold medal, a World Cup championship and the WUSA Founders Cup championship, joining Tisha Venturini and Mia Hamm in that category.

While she had an outstanding career at Carolina, her level of success playing for the U.S. National Team in international competition became the hallmark of her playing career. As a member of the National Team from 1988-2000, she was the sixth-most capped player in the team's history at the time of her retirement, appearing in 168 games.

Winning has never been foreign to Werden, who played on four Carolina women's teams from 1986-89 that won NCAA championships. The Tar Heels did not lose a single game during her four-year tenure, compiling a record of 89-0-6 from 1986-89. The NSCAA named her a first-team All-America in both 1987 and 1988 and a second-team All-America in 1989.

She earned first-team All-ACC accolades as a junior and senior.

She was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player of the 1988 NCAA Tournament as the Tar Heels defeated arch-rival NC State 4-1 in the championship game. Her defensive prowess was evidenced by her four appearances on the NCAA All-Tournament team as a Tar Heel defender.

Werden began competing internationally while she was still a Tar Heel. She competed on the 1988 United States Team that won the gold medal at the Goodwill Games in New York.

Overbeck was also a member of the 1991 U.S. National Team that won the World Cup in China. She was captain of the 1995 U.S. World Cup squad, which finished third.

In 1996, she was captain of the U.S. National Team that won the gold medal at the Olympic Games.

In 1999, she started 22 games for the U.S. National Team, playing 1,764 minutes as she co-captained the United States Team that won the World Cup championship. She converted on the first penalty kick in the U.S.'s victory over China in the World Cup championship match. The U.S. won the penalty kick shootout 5-4 after battling the Chinese to a scoreless tie after 120 minutes of regulation time and overtime.

Overbeck is now in her 20th year as an assistant coach at Duke University. She also played for the Carolina Courage in the WUSA, leading the team to the Founder's Cup crown in 2002. She was a charter member in the founding of the pro league.

She graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1990 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in psychology.

Werden is a native of Dallas, Texas, where she attended Richardson High School. She was born May 9, 1968 in Pasadena, Calif.

Her husband, Greg Overbeck, co-owns several restaurants in the Triangle, including Squids, 411 West and Spanky's in Chapel Hill. They have a 13-year-old son, Jackson, and a seven-year-old daughter, Carson.

Overbeck was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2006 and to the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 2010.

The University of North Carolina women's soccer program is fortunate to call Fetzer Field its home stadium. In its ninth decade of use as a multi-sport facility, Fetzer Field is one of the premier soccer domains in the nation and has been a site where many signature events in UNC athletic history have taken place over the years.

Fetzer was originally built in 1935 with extensive upgrades taking place from 1988-90. The facility has been host to the NCAA Women's College Cup semifinal and final games seven times in the history of the tournament.

A Fetzer Field record crowd of 7,212, at the time the most to ever see a women's collegiate soccer game, watched the No. 1 Tar Heels fall to No. 4 Notre Dame 1-0 in the 1995 NCAA semifinals.

The largest regular-season crowd in Fetzer Field lore witnessed the top-ranked Tar Heels' 5-1 victory over second-ranked Notre Dame on September 13, 1998 as 6,024 fans streamed through the Fetzer Field gates.

Large crowds are a regular part of UNC women's soccer history. Carolina led the NCAA in average home attendance five straight years from 1998-2002. Since the NCAA initially compiled attendance figures in 1998, Carolina has always ranked in the top five in average home attendance. Carolina ranked second in average home attendance in 2003 and 2004, stood third in the standings in 2005, 2007 and 2009, ranked fourth in 2008 and was fifth in 2006.

There is no college team in the country that can compare to UNC when packing a stadium. The Tar Heels played Notre Dame in the NCAA championship game on December 5, 1999 before a crowd of 14,410 in San Jose, Calif. That is the largest crowd in NCAA women's soccer history. On August 25, 2006, the Tar Heels played Texas A&M before a crowd of 8,204 in College Station, Texas. That marked the largest regular-season crowd to ever watch a game in NCAA women's soccer history.

Given the success of the program it comes as no surprise that the Tar Heels have amassed one of the best home records in collegiate sports history. Carolina enters the 2010 season with a record of 295-12-6 at Fetzer Field. In those 313 home games, Carolina has outscored its foes by 1,264 goals. In those games, UNC has scored 1,413 times and its opponents have tallied 149 goals.

Named for former Tar Heel athletic director and track coach Robert Allison Fetzer, the stadium has been the home of Carolina's soccer programs since 1947, the first year that UNC sponsored a varsity men's team. The women's program was started in 1979 as one of the first varsity women's programs in the nation. Anson Dorrance has been the only head coach of the women's program in that time and only four men have served as the head coach of men's teams in games played at Fetzer Field since 1947.

Located in the heart of the Carolina campus directly adjacent to Carmichael Auditorium on South Road, also referred to as Raleigh Road, the playing field, track and grandstand was completed in 1935 as a Works Project Administration program during the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. In the heart of the Great Depression, the building of Fetzer Field provided a plethora of much needed jobs to Tar Heel natives who were then suffering through economic deprivation.

The facility's renovations over the years have made it one of the most beautiful all-around collegiate venues in the nation. Fetzer Field sits in a natural valley in the center of campus surrounded by Carmichael Arena, the Michael Hooker intramural fields, the Institute of Government, the Eddie Smith Field House, Henry Stadium, the Navy Field football and lacrosse practice fields, Teague and Carmichael dormitories and Kessing Outdoor Pool.

Beginning in 1988 and continuing over a period of two years, the playing field itself was re-worked and leveled, the grandstand was refitted with new aluminum bleachers, a new track was installed, lights were added, two ticket booths were added to the front gate, a permanent concession stand was erected and a computer scoreboard/message center was installed.

Large crowds have been the rule at Fetzer Field since the inception of the women's program in 1979. The two largest crowds attended Tar Heel matchups against Notre Dame. The third largest crowd was in attendance for Mia Hamm's collegiate finale, A total of 5,721 fans were on hand at Fetzer Field as Carolina routed George Mason 6-0 in the NCAA title game on November 21, 1993.

Currently Fetzer Field is the home facility for six of Carolina's 28 varsity teams—men's soccer, women's soccer, men's outdoor track and field, women's outdoor track and field, men's lacrosse

McCaskill Soccer Center

The McCaskill Soccer Center on the University of North Carolina campus was dedicated in a gala ceremony on April 11, 1999. Attending the event were members of the Educational Foundation as well as other University of North Carolina soccer enthusiasts and donors to the building project. Construction on the 6,600-square-foot soccer facility was completed shortly before its dedication.

The McCaskill Soccer Center is located on the same site as the former soccer offices adjacent to Fetzer Field. The old soccer offices were located in a building called the UNC Soccer Hut that dated back to the original construction in 1935. The new structure honored the McCaskill family, long-time supporters of Tar Heel athletics.

The two-story structure accommodates varsity men's and women's soccer locker rooms on the first floor as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor houses coaches' offices for both sports as well as a large conference room.

Carolina has one of the richest traditions in collegiate soccer, both men and women. The men's team attained varsity status in 1947 under legendary coach Marvin Allen. The Tar Heel men have suffered only one losing season since 1957.

Carolina has appeared in the NCAA Tournament 16 times in the last 23 years. Fourteen of those appearances have come in the last 22 years when Elmar Bolowich has served as head coach. One of the high water marks for the Tar Heel men's team came in 1987 when UNC claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA semifinals under the direction of coach Anson Dorrance.

Under the auspices of coach Bolowich, the Tar Heel men's team made great strides during the 1999 season, earning the first NCAA bid in five years. The 2000 season was an amazing one for UNC men's soccer as Carolina claimed the ACC championship and advanced to the NCAA Tournament quarterfinals. Carolina went one better in 2001, earning the first NCAA men's soccer championship in school history. UNC also advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals in 2005 and in 2008 the Tar Heels advanced all the way to the NCAA championship game as the tournament's No. 13 seed. Last year, Carolina made a return

Carolina's 12 losses at Fetzer Field include two to the McLean Grasshoppers in 1979, two to Virginia Select in 1980, to Duke in 1994, to Notre Dame in 1995, to Penn State in 1999, to Santa Clara in 2004, to Duke in 2005, to both South Carolina and Notre Dame in 2007 and to Notre Dame in 2008. to the NCAA College Cup in back-to-back years, falling on penalty kicks in the semifinals.

Coach Anson Dorrance's women's teams have comprised one of the most amazing dynasties in college athletics. The Tar Heels have won 21 national championships in the 29 years in which tournaments have been held. The women have an all-time record of 696-36-22. The women have an incredible record of 295-12-6 at Fetzer Field. In 19 of the past 26 years, Carolina has had at least one player chosen National Player of the Year by a soccer organization. Eight Tar Heels were members of the U.S. National Team which won the title at the 1999 Women's World Cup championship and four played on the 2008 Olympic Team which claimed a gold medal.

"The former 1,200-square-foot soccer office was greatly outdated," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "We've made improvements to a lot of our facilities in recent years and this one was badly needed. That would be the case regardless of the teams' records. We want to give our student-athletes the best chance to succeed and enjoy the experience here. This is a way to help in that regard."

The destruction of the Old UNC Soccer Hut was carried out in 1997. Construction of the new building commenced following the conclusion of the 1997 season. In the meantime, the soccer offices were housed in temporary facilities at Finley Field, the Tar Heels' practice facility near the University golf course. While the new center has over five times more space than the old facility, the expansion occurred without any loss of parking on campus, always a major concern.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Board of Trustees approved the selection of NBBJ Architects of the Research Triangle Park to design the project. Estimated cost of construction was approximately $1.7 million. The project was funded through Athletic Department funds and Educational Foundation gifts. The building was named in honor of Bud and Mildred McCaskill, long-time benefactors of the University.

Together, Fetzer Field and the McCaskill Soccer Center give Carolina two of the best facilities in collegiate soccer.

Dick Baddour
• Director of Athletics

Goldsboro native and Tar Heel alumnus Dick Baddour is in his 14th year as Director of Athletics and his 44th year at the University of North Carolina. He directs one of the most successful and respected athletic programs in the country, known for its commitment to academic integrity and competitive excellence in men's and women's sports.

During Baddour's tenure, the Tar Heels have won 13 national championships, including seven in women's soccer, three in field hockey, two in men's basketball and one in men's soccer, won two football bowl games and had numerous top 10 national finishes in Olympic sports. Nineteen different UNC men's and women's teams have combined for 62 Atlantic Coast Conference championships, more than any other school in the league over that span. UNC has led the league in the number of team championships in seven of the last 13 seasons.

Under Baddour's leadership, UNC has excelled as an overall athletic program. Carolina finished seventh in the 2009-10 Learfield Sports Directors' Cup, an award that measures NCAA postseason performance. In 10 of the last 13 years the Tar Heels have finished first among ACC schools and the 2009-10 finish was the eighth top-10 placing for UNC in the last nine years, including top-four showings in 2006, 2007 and 2009.

Baddour graduated from UNC in 1966 and was appointed Assistant Dean of Men in 1967. He served as Assistant Dean of Admissions and Assistant Dean of the UNC School of Law and also earned a Master of Arts degree in education prior to joining the athletic department in 1986. In 2001, he received the Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

Baddour and his wife, Lynda, have two sons, Allen and David, and a daughter, Jennifer, as well as six grandchildren: Henry, Jack, Lauren, Johnathan, William and Julia.

Dr. Beth Miller
• Sr. Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller is in her 26th year supervising North Carolina's highly-successful 26-team Olympic sports program and serves as UNC's Senior Woman Administrator.

A native of Landis, N.C., Miller is a 1968 alumna of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She has a master's from ASU and earned a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State in 1974.

From 1969-72, Miller served as the head volleyball and basketball coach at Appalachian State. She became head volleyball coach at UNC in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four consecutive ACC titles from 1980-83 and five postseason tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina from 1978-79.

In 1979, Miller was named UNC's Athletic Business Manager. She retired from coaching volleyball after 1983, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. She has overseen UNC's Olympic Sports program since 1985.

Miller serves on the NCAA Committee on Women's Athletics, as well as a number of Atlantic Coast Conference committees, including those for women's basketball, women's golf and volleyball. She also is a member of UNC's Housing Advisory Board.

In recognition of her outstanding service to Carolina, Miller was honored in April of 2008 as a recipient of the 2008 C. Knox Massey Distinguished Service Award, one of the most prestigious honors bestowed by the University of North Carolina.

Student-Athlete Services: Advancing Toward Graduation, Building Character, Developing Leadership

Student-Athlete Services at the University of North Carolina encompass three areas that play an integral part in the collegiate experience of the approximately 700 UNC student-athletes at the University who compete in 28 varsity sports, making Carolina's program the most extensive in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Those three areas are Academic Development, Student-Athlete Development and Leadership Development.

ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

The Academic Support Program is the main service utilized in advancing UNC student-athletes to graduation. The program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.

"Our young people are students first and athletes second and that will always be the case at the University," says UNC Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, our administrators and support staff, but most of all, our student-athletes. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

Kristi Eveland won the 2009 NCAA Elite 88 Award.

During the 2009-10 academic year, 323 Carolina student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, which requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0 for the year.

Eight UNC players were on the fall 2009 semester Dean's List. They were freshman Amber Brooks, sophomore Rebecca Crabb, junior Rachel Givan, junior Ali Hawkins, junior Katie Lutz, sophomore Emmalie Pfankuch, senior Sterling Smith and fresh-

The Athletic Department's Academic Support Program is equipped with study facilities, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, an auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

Academic Advisor
Brent Blanton

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen transition from high school to college through a variety of academic programs such as academic counseling, individual tutoring, group review sessions and supplemental instruction.

One full-time employee of the Academic Support Program is specifically assigned to work with each team. Brent Blanton serves as the academic advisor for the UNC women's soccer team.

STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT

Building character in UNC student-athletes is the main charge of Student-Athlete Development.

Through Carolina Outreach, Tar Heels are involved in a variety of projects and organizations on campus and in the community. The UNC Department of Athletics has partnered with Gatorade and the UNC School of Public Health for a national pilot program called Get Kids in Action, in which Tar Heel student-athletes visit local elementary schools to encourage children their continual quest to become world class leaders in athletics, academics and life.

The Academy consists of three programs:

CREED Program

Leadership training begins in the freshman year. All leadership begins with personal leadership, therefore freshmen are taught skills to effectively lead themselves.

Training consists of monthly meetings featuring keynote speakers and small group discussion. Upperclass student-athletes serve as peer mentors and discussion leaders. Special focus is on responsibility, accountability, making good choices, ethics and character building.

Rising Stars Program

Designed for a select group of "high potential" sophomores and juniors, the program provides future leaders with insights, strategies and skills necessary to become effective leaders. The program includes monthly meetings, interactive exercises and action learning experiences.

Veteran Leaders Program

This program is designed for team captains and veteran student-athletes. It provides advanced leadership training and support, teaches the critical skills and insights necessary to be effective vocal leaders and provides a strong peer network. Student-athletes meet regularly to learn and reinforce leadership principles and share successes, frustrations and lessons while preparing for a career of significance.

to exercise. The Carolina Dreams program allows young patients at UNC Children's Hospitals to attend Tar Heel sporting events with UNC student-athletes. Other recent activities have included building a house with Habitat for Humanity, cooking meals at Ronald McDonald House and cleaning up the roadways through the Adopt-a-Highway program.

Student-Athlete Development also seeks to develop student-athletes on a personal level through a variety of speakers who address issues like nutrition, gambling, relationship communication and substance use. Career Development helps UNC student-athletes look beyond college with resources such as career counseling and workshops on resume writing and interviewing skills.

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The primary outlet for Leadership Development is the Carolina Leadership Academy, started at UNC in 2004. As the nation's premier leadership development program in collegiate athletics, the Carolina Leadership Academy develops, challenges and supports student-athletes, coaches and staff in

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Greg Gatz

Steve Gisselman

Under the direction of the UNC Olympic sports strength and conditioning staff, Tar Heel student-athletes get outstanding coaching intended to help maximize their physical potential. The staff evaluates Carolina student-athletes in a variety of ways, including the use of specialized software for lifting and running video analysis, to encourage steady progress toward reaching optimum preparation for competition. The women's soccer team trains at the Olympic sports weight room. In addition to top-of-the-line strength equipment, the center boasts a five-lane, 25-yard rubberized surface for teaching and performing warm-up activities, acceleration drills and agility movements. Year-round training produces athletes who are prepared to compete successfully and safely. Greg Gatz, the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports, oversees the program along with Steve Gisselman, Assistant Director of Strength and Conditioning. Gatz specifically works with the women's soccer team at Carolina.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The Tar Heels receive excellent care from one of the country's best sports medicine staffs. Dr. Mario Ciocca, Director of Sports Medicine, oversees a comprehensive program designed to keep student-athletes healthy and to rehabilitate any injuries quickly and successfully. Dr. Tom Brickner is the physician who works directly with the women's soccer team while Dr. Alex Creighton is the team's orthopedic surgeon.

I'M A TAR HEEL. It's a simple statement—a phrase that can mean something different for each person who says it. Underlying it is a thread common to each member of the Carolina Family. That underlying thread is the commitment each Tar Heel has to do things the Carolina Way—with great integrity, a dedication to fellow Tar Heels, an unwavering loyalty to Carolina, and a commitment to excellence.

The Carolina Way also entails a commitment to excellence—a commitment that is unrivaled elsewhere. It is evident in Carolina's 37 team national championships, 54 individual national championships, and numerous conference titles. It is evident in the classroom as Carolina boasts an outstanding 85 percent graduation rate among student-athletes. It is evident in the community as Tar Heel student-athletes and staff performed more than 20,000 hours of community service last year.

THE RAMS CLUB

THE RAMS CLUB shares the commitment to a high level of excellence that is characteristic of this University. The Rams Club supports Carolina's broad-based athletics program by offering scholarship and program support assistance to more than 450 student-athletes in 28 varsity sports each year.

As a Rams Club member, you can enjoy the pride of investing in our student-athletes and their success. Your renewed membership in The Rams Club gives our outstanding student-athletes an opportunity to give their own definition of what it means TO BE A TAR HEEL.
